right is Alexander Haig, the president's chief of staff. Following the briefing, Kissinger held a news conference at the State Department.

Kissinger: U.S. Opposes Big Power Mideast Units

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today the United States is absolutely opposed to the introduction of any troops from any major power into the Mideast.

But Kissinger said the United States would be willing to supply some personnel to a United Nations observer force "whose responsibility it is to report to the security council violations of the cease-fire."

Kissinger said the United States also would agree to an international peace-keeping force being set up, provided that no permanent member of the Security Council participate in such a force.

Prior to his news conference, Kissinger spent the morning at the White House in lengthy conferences with the President, and in giving congressional leaders of both parties a rundown on the situation including a worldwide alert involving U.S. military units.

As Kissinger left to go to the State Department for the meeting with newsmen, Nixon — an arm draped around the secretary's shoulder — walked with him to his waiting limousine.

"We do not consider ourselves in confrontation with the Soviet Union," Kissinger said in response to a question after he gave a lengthy account of the history of the Middle East crisis.

But he added that "cooperative action precludes unilateral action" and said the President had decided to emphasize the United States' opposition to any Soviet unilateral action.

The Arab nations, he said, "have demonstrated their concern," and have received "international assurances" that other nations will take an interest in efforts to stop the fighting.

The Soviet Union, Kissinger said, "This is not threatened in any of its legitimate positions" in the Mideast conflict.

At the conclusion of his review of the war, Kissinger declared that "the United States does not favor and will not approve the sending of joint United States and Soviet forces" to police the cease-fire, as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat asked yesterday.

"The United States believes that what is needed above all," Kissinger said, "is a determination of the facts — of who is in what position and who is doing the shooting. Then the Security Council can take action on the violations."

"It is inconceivable that we should transplant the great power rivalries into the Mideast or that we should set up a great power condominium over the Mideast."

He added that "the United States is opposed to the introduction by any great power and especially any nuclear power" of forces in the battle area.

But Kissinger went on to say, "The United States will support and give assistance to and is willing to supply some personnel to a United Nations security force whose duty it is to report to the United Nations..." on violations of the cease-fire.

This security force could "aid the parties in taking care of humanitarian concerns," Kissinger said.

Denial To Sidestepping Tapes Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger emphatically denied today that President Nixon's troop alert in the Middle East crisis was aimed at diverting attention from Nixon's Watergate problems.

In response to a question at his news conference, Kissinger replied: "It is a symptom of what is happening to our country that anyone would suggest that the United States would alert its military forces for domestic political purposes." Several of the questions by reporters touched on the Watergate situation, including a suggestion that the President had issued the military alert to distract public attention from such developments as House consideration of possible impeachment action.

Kissinger responded that administration officials in the military and foreign policy field "are not playing with the lives of the American people."

"We are attempting to conduct the foreign policy of the United States with regard not just to the electorate but to future generations," Kissinger said.

He said that eventually a detailed explanation of the events that led to the troop alert would show that "the President had absolutely no choice."

The secretary told the reporters "it is up to you ladies and gentlemen whether there is going to be a crisis of confidence in foreign policy as well" — apparently referring to Nixon's Watergate-related problems.

Farm Food Costs Take Sharp Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The annual retail cost of a market basket of farm-produced food declined $24 in September, the sharpest drop in 17 years, according to government figures released today.

The price decline, the first of the year, would have been much greater if middlemen had passed along all the squeeze absorbed by farmers, the figures indicated.

As computed by the Agriculture Department, the cost of an entire year's food supply for a theoretical household of 3.2 persons was $1,629 in September, down 1.5 per cent from the record of $1,653 in August.

William R. Seeger Quits Water Post

Directors Startled By Manager's Move

By PAUL LIBERATORE

William R. Seeger, general manager and chief engineer of the Marin Municipal Water District for 19 years, quit his $37,900-a-year post yesterday in a move that startled district directors.

Seeger, whose resignation will be effective Jan. 1, will become executive engineer for Kennedy Engineers Inc. of San Francisco, a utilities engineering firm specializing in the field of sanitary engineering.

"Retiring at this time is a little earlier than I had anticipated," the 60-year-old general manager told the board. "But in view of the opportunity I have been offered... I believe this is an appropriate time to take an early retirement."

Seeger said most of his goals and objectives have, or soon will be, completed. Since there is no major work contemplated for the district in the immediate future, a change in management at this time would not affect district operations, he said.

"I feel that change is always good as most of us from time to time find ourselves in ruts," he said.

Director L. Martin Griffin

WILLIAM R. SEEGER

said the resignation came as "a complete surprise" and that Seeger was a man who knew his way around water politics and would be difficult to replace.

Griffin characterized Seeger as "a man used to controversy" and remarked that he did not believe that current board policies motivated his decision to step down. "He was under no pressure from us to resign, as far as I'm concerned," he added.

Griffin said the outcome of the Nov. 6 election on the district's $7.5 million water supply bond issue, which directors have refused to endorse, will be a factor in the kind of man chosen to replace Seeger. "We have several very outstanding men on our present staff," he said. The bond measure would finance one part of a four-part Russian River project to bring water to Marin.

Seeger will remain in the Bay

Nixon Cancels Press Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon called off a nationally televised evening news conference today which had been expected to focus on the Middle East crisis and his handling of the Watergate controversy.

It marked the second time in as many days that Nixon had abruptly switched signals. He originally had planned to deliver a nationwide address to the people on the Watergate situation last night.

This was abandoned yesterday in favor of the now cancelled news conference, set for 9 p.m. EDT tonight.

Shortly before noon, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon was calling off the meeting with newsmen so he could concentrate on the still-tense events in the Middle East.

Warren said the news conference would be held sometime Friday at a time to be announced later.

Last night, Nixon conferred with Cabinet-level diplomatic and military advisers at the White House, after Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin handed Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger what was described as a "rough and threatening" note.

The note informed the United States that the Soviet Union would send troops into the Middle East unilaterally unless the uneasy cease-fire holds.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-

Wash., said the Soviet note invited the United States to jointly police the cease-fire and accused the Israelis of violating the agreement to halt hostilities.

Throughout the morning, the President held a series of major meetings on developments in the Middle East, including his ordering what the White House described as a "precautionary" alert of U.S. military and air units both at home and abroad.

Nixon conferred again today with a bipartisan group of congressional leaders and with the National Security Council as well as Kissinger.

The President's aides have told him they believe that impeachment talk, which began with his weekend firing of prosecutor Archibald Cox, has abated somewhat since Tuesday, when he backed down in his confrontation with the courts and agreed to relinquish his taped conversations.

But AFL-CIO president George Meany called for Nixon's impeachment or resignation yesterday, delivering what was probably Meany's most severe attack ever against Nixon.

UN Yields On Troop Movements

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Sponsors of a nonaligned powers' Middle East resolution yielded to U.S. pressure today and agreed that forces from the Big Five Security Council members should be excluded from a proposed UN emergency force for the area.

The U.S. delegation had offered an amendment to the original resolution providing for exclusion of the big power troops. The deal was clinched when Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger declared in his Washington news conference that the United States was absolutely opposed to participation of troops from any of the five permanent Security Council members—the United States, Soviet Union, Britain, France and China.

The United States also objected to the word "withdraw" in connection with a demand in the draft resolution for all sides to go to positions they held when the UN-ordered ceasefire originally was to have become effective last Monday. The sponsors substituted the word "return."

With these changes, Ambassador Lazar Mojsov of Yugoslavia, one of the resolution's sponsors, said "now everybody is in agreement," indicating that the Soviet Union would go along.

Diplomatic bickering over the resolution delayed for hours the start of a Security Council meeting that had been scheduled for 10:30 a.m. UN sources doubted that the revised resolution would be put to a vote today.

Olympic Pool At McInnis Park Reaffirmed By Park Commission

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission yesterday unanimously reaffirmed its support of a plan to locate an Olympic-sized swimming pool at the John F. McInnis Park in Lucas Valley.

Commissioners rejected a proposal that the county join the Marin Community College District in a jointly financed 50-meter pool at Indian Valley College in Novato. That proposal was suggested earlier this month by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste as a way of cutting construction and maintenance costs.

The joint venture proposal came under heavy fire from the parks department staff on the grounds it would force county recreational needs to take a back seat to college educational needs since the college would have prime time use of the pool.

Park planner Don Rolph told commissioners the joint project would provide only one pool as

Corporate Look Blooms From Meager Beginnings

Synanon — presently undergoing scrutiny by the county government which is once more concerned about the organization's development plans — is not what it was.

Hard work and pursuit of the Synanon Game have transformed the raffish collection of drug addicts who followed Charles E. Dederich in 1958 into practitioners of a communal life and beneficiaries of a multimillion-dollar corporation.

The products of both the work and a changed lifestyle can be viewed in West Marin, where roughly one-third of the membership and a quarter of Synanon Foundation's assets are now concentrated. The other two-thirds is scattered about the nation.

The old Marconi property on Tomales Bay near Marshall is the business headquarters of the foundation and of Synanon Industries, the member-operated business which accounts for nearly half of the organization's yearly income.

Two other properties, the 1,500-acre Maggetti ranch on the Marshall-Petaluma Road and the 740-acre Walker Creek Ranch, are being used for agriculture and cattle and are the principal cause of worry to the county. The reason is that building is burgeoning on them to handle ever increasing numbers of persons working there.

Some 560 people out of the total membership of roughly 1,600 now live in the three West Marin establishments, with over 400 on the two ranches.

Over the years about 20,000 persons have joined various

Growing Mideast Crisis Prompts U.S. To Put Troops On Alert

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of American troops and airmen were ordered on a worldwide precautionary alert today while the United States undertook strenuous diplomatic efforts to prevent the Middle East cease-fire from falling apart.

The "general alert," described by military sources as the greatest since the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, was ordered "around midnight" after the Soviet Union served notice that Russian troops might be sent to the Middle East for peacekeeping duty.

Some nuclear bombing crews were involved in the Defense Department operation which affected virtually every U.S. military base throughout the world to some extent.

The White House and others stressed that the alert was precautionary. When asked about possible Soviet troop movements — after the United States refused to become part of a superpower police force — White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren declined to reply at a special midmorning news briefing. He also refused to say whether he still stood by a statement yesterday when he said:

"The United States has no intention of sending troops into the Middle East. We hope no other outside parties will send troops to the Middle East."

House Speaker Carl Albert stressed afterward that "the overwhelming emphasis" was on a diplomatic solution to the Mideast war and that the alert was precautionary.

The call-up included many National Guard Air Defense fighter units, sources said, although not every unit was placed on a high level of readiness. There was no immediate report of reserve ground troops being alerted.

Egypt asked yesterday that a U.S.-Soviet peacekeeping force be formed but the United States quickly responded that it had no intention of joining in such a move.

American sources said this was because the administration wanted to avoid any risk of a situation where troops of the superpowers might face each other in a combat situation.

White House aides said "there is no crisis atmosphere here," and a military source said, "things are not as tense as they might seem to be."

Diplomatic observers speculated that the alert might be intended more as a psychological than a military maneuver.

Sirica May Seek Advice On Tapes' Authenticity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A spokesman for Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica said today Sirica is considering whether to seek technical advice to insure that President Nixon's Watergate tapes have not been altered.

Experts, meanwhile, disagreed over whether it was possible to make changes in the tapes that could not be detected.

The spokesman said Sirica has not decided whether he actually will seek advice. Numerous persons have offered suggestions, he said, and Sirica has told them to present their ideas in writing.

Sirica will be out of his chambers until Monday, so he will not be able to hear the tapes before then. The White House has indicated it will move "expeditiously" to provide the tapes.

After three months of litigation, Nixon agreed Tuesday to turn over nine tapes to Sirica for the judge to inspect and decide whether any should be given to the Watergate grand juries.

The tapes deal mainly with conversations that could corroborate—or knock down—former White House Counsel John W.

Dean III's testimony that Nixon knew about a Watergate cover-up by Sept. 15, 1972.

The officer of an electronic engineering firm that has worked with broadcasters for 35 years said in an interview that sensitive amplifying equipment could detect whether a tape had been edited.

The engineer, who asked not to be quoted by name, said sophisticated equipment can detect the slightest change in background noise as well as noiseless radiation and emissions from such things as electric motors and fluorescent lights. Backgrounds, he said, rarely remain the same, even a few moments apart.

Nixon Tape Decision Hasn't Ended Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite President Nixon's decision to surrender nine of his secret Watergate tapes, there are indications the crisis is far from over.

From the President's past statements and those of his top aides, it appears that the White House may plan to give up those tapes and nothing more, and may be digging in for a protracted battle to protect other recordings and documents from disclosure.

There are also indications that Nixon's own Justice Department, shaken by the departure of the attorney general and his deputy following the firing of Archibald Cox, may intend to challenge such a presidential plan.

Last July 23, in rejecting requests from Cox and the Watergate committee for the tapes, Nixon said "...the tapes could be accurately understood or interpreted only by reference to an enormous number of other documents and tapes, so that to open them at all would begin an endless process of disclosure and explanation of private presidential records totally unrelated to Watergate, and highly confidential in nature ..."

After losing in the courts, Nixon now has agreed to surrender the nine tapes Cox sought.

But if Nixon believes these

He compared a tape recording to a fingerprint of which there are no two alike.

Granville Klink, chief engineer of WTOP Radio in Washington, whose staff works with tapes constantly, said, however, that small magnetic pencils can be used to take out even a syllable. He compared it to touching up a photo.

Klink said it is easier to edit a tape by deleting than adding. He said an edited tape can be dubbed onto another tape to eliminate any outward appearance of editing or splicing.

Continued dubbing, Klink said, reduces the sensitivity of the recording and blurs whatever changes have been made.

ROBERT H. BORK
Watergate prober

Bork Claims He'll Run Full Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert H. Bork, who inherited both the Justice Department and the Watergate case last weekend during the crisis over President Nixon's secret tapes, has vowed he will sue Nixon if he must to get more vital evidence.

The new acting attorney general told his first news conference yesterday he will pursue a "vigorous investigation" and has a "clear understanding" from a talk with Nixon that his work will not be impeded in any way.

Bork said he expects "full cooperation" from the White House as the case unfolds but is prepared to go to court if necessary to get essential evidence the grand jury needs beyond the nine tape recordings Nixon is surrendering.

"If we have to use the judicial process...no procedure is ruled out that is essential to get the evidence," Bork said. "If the law entitles us to any other evidence, I will go after it."

The bearded Bork, 48, fell heir to his new job Saturday night when his two superiors—Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson and Deputy Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus—quit rather than carry out Nixon's orders to fire Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Bork, who had been No. 3 man at the Justice Department as solicitor general, told reporters that he, too, nearly quit after carrying out the order to fire Cox because he feared he would be "perceived as a man who would do something like that just to save his job."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Gilda Is Back

MIAMI (UPI) — Rejuvenated tropical storm Gilda sprawled over the waters of the southwest North Atlantic between Bermuda and the central and southeast coast of the United States today with top sustained winds of 50 to 60 miles an hour. The National Hurricane Center warned of rough seas along most of the southeast U.S. coast.

Paint Protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has approved and sent to the White House a bill aimed at protecting children from poisoning by lead-based paint.

The House, by voice vote, completed congressional action on the bill yesterday. It authorizes spending $125 million over two years to detect dwellings with peeling lead-based paint, to eliminate the hazard and for research into improved paints.

During hearings on the legislation, the House and Senate heard witnesses testify that many children had died and others had suffered permanent brain damage from eating lead-based paint off walls of houses or buildings.

Bomb At School

BELFAST (UPI) — A bomb exploded outside a school in the Bogside district of Londonderry today, injuring the principal of the school and the janitor, the army said.

The blast was one of four reported in the city today, but the other explosions caused no casualties, an army spokesman said.

Initial reports from the scene said the bomb that exploded outside the school killed two suspected Irish Republican Army gunmen and injured several persons, but the reports later turned out to be false, the army said.

Slump In Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — For the first time since late 1970, U.S. automakers have reported a continued slump in sales due mainly to a shortage of small cars.

Domestic sales in the Oct. 11-20 period totaled 268,493 cars, down 15.7 per cent from the same period a year ago. It marked the third consecutive reporting period that sales have slipped on a year-to-year basis, the first time that has happened since December, 1970.

The slump, say top auto executives, is not due to a lack of demand but rather a lack of available cars in the most sought-after models. Only American Motors was able to report a gain in mid-October, and it also complained of a shortage.

Observe 'Truce'

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian rebels today resumed observation of an unofficial truce 12 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, replacing a unit that wanted to fight.

Government Lt. Prom Roth said the rebel 6th battalion was replaced by the 3rd battalion at Kompong Tuol on Highway 3.

The highway is cut 12 miles southwest of Phnom Penh where Roth's troops and the rebels are facing each other across the Prek Thnot river. The stream has been the unofficial cease-fire line most of the time since Oct. 6 while fighting has continued throughout the rest of Cambodia.

Hits Allocations

ATLANTA (UPI) — The president of the National Association of Manufacturers said yesterday any attempt by the government to implement a fuel allocation system would be "a mess."

E. Douglas Kenna, the former president of a financial service firm specializing in natural resources, said current political and economic crises make it imperative that the United States return to a free economy system.

He said President Nixon "doesn't want to face the facts" about the "nation's most serious problem," the energy crisis, and "any attempt by the government to enforce a mandatory fuel allocation system will be a mess."

Cox Reveals Probe Of Reelection Fund

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox says before he was fired Saturday he was investigating possible efforts by the White House staff to raise large sums of cash in 1970 for President Nixon's reelection campaign.

Cox also said yesterday that "possible abuses" of national security and other government agencies, including the Internal Revenue Service, had been under investigation by his task force, now under Justice Department control.

Cox, fired by Nixon last Saturday night as a result of their dispute over Nixon's Watergate tapes, was interviewed by Walter Cronkite on the CBS Evening News.

Cox said he could not with "complete assurance" know what other investigations might have worried the President. But he said: "Inquiries were being pushed into the raising of campaign funds, especially very large funds raised in conjunction with the White House staff in 1970—raised, I think, chiefly in cash."

He declined to comment on reports that his staff also had been investigating the possible diversion of campaign contributions to a private investment trust fund for the President.

"That wouldn't be proper for a former prosecutor to go into," Cox said.

He said he saw former White House counsel John W. Dean's awareness that he might eventually be indicted for perjury as "pretty convincing evidence" that Dean believes his testimony cannot be proved untrue once the evidence on the tapes is known.

Cox said that other tapes and documents as yet not subpoenaed, particularly voluminous notes kept by former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman, could be more important than the nine tapes Nixon has agreed to surrender.

Truce Appears To Hold Despite Egypt Charges

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egypt today charged Israel with breaking the cease-fire by attacking Suez City but Israel denied it. In spite of the new charge of Israeli attacks, the truce appeared generally to be holding.

An Egyptian communique said the Israelis mounted an armored attack on Suez City at noon but that they had been driven back with the loss of 11 tanks. It was the third successive day the Egyptians have charged the Israelis with breaking the truce.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel

Aviv said "we have no knowledge of any fire in that region" where the Israelis claim they have encircled the Egyptian Third Army of 20,000 men.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan offered to resign after reported cabinet criticism over Israel's apparent surprise at the Oct. 6 start of the latest Middle East war. Dayan said he would quit if he "does not enjoy the complete confidence" of Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Mrs. Meir later rejected the offer of resignation, expressing "full confidence" in Dayan and saying the controversy over Israel's preparedness "would be clarified jointly in the cabinet at an appropriate time and not now."

An Israeli spokesman reported "sporadic, unorganized" fighting with encircled Egyptian troops on the east bank of the canal, but said most of the southern front and all of the north were quiet.

Syria agreed the northern front was calm.

U.N. observers began planting truce flags today to mark off territory seized by each side during the fourth Middle East war in 25 years, but predicted increased problems in keeping the Arabs and Israelis apart.

"It is going to be even tougher this time," a U.N. truce officer said in Cairo. "Before we had the canal between the Israelis and the Egyptians and it was not difficult to spot infractions. Now the Egyptians are on the east bank and the Israelis are on the west bank. We are going to need a lot more men to police these various pockets."

opposed to three if the county goes it alone at McInnis Park, formerly called the North Bay Front Park.

County officials envision three pools, including a recreation and competition 50-meter pool (five or six feet deep), a smaller and shallower instruction and physical therapy pool and a deep diving and water polo pool.

"The multiple pools will allow each to fit the various needs more exactly and will allow several activities to occur at the same time," he said, adding the single college pool would be a compromise at best.

The college pool also lacks space for spectators, adequate deck area and parking and would promote conflicts between college use and general recreation and competition use, he said.

"In discussions with the college staff, it appears that Indiana Valley Colleges will continue to propose a 50-meter pool with or without county support," Rolph said, adding the county will need pools at McInnis Park anyway.

He said potential savings to the county, one of the reasons listed by Baptists for looking into the joint venture, "are not large."

"It's not logical to try blending the county's recreational requirements with the college's educational requirements," Commissioner Merritt A. Robinson said. "The McInnis Park is the only place to put the Olympic pool."

Other commissioners agreed and voted unanimously to recommend to county supervisors that the pool and other swimming facilities be located at McInnis Park.

Teen Ordered To Term In Jail

A San Anselmo teen-ager — who admitted breaking into a service station and driving a car through a glass door — has been ordered to spend six months in jail.

Billie Dean Trumble, 18, a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School, will be allowed to attend school days and sleep at the jail nights, ruled Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

Best also placed Trumble, of 849 San Anselmo Avenue, on probation for three years, ordered him to pay $1,500 to the owner of Bob's Arco service station and declared his crime a misdemeanor.

Trumble pleaded guilty to breaking into the station July 20 by throwing a tire through a window and driving a car through a lube room door.

The Novato Unified School District will receive $27,832 more in Elementary and Secondary Education Act funds, for a total of $98,880 this year the district board has learned.

Bunker also reported that the district will receive $881 less than expected in vocational education funds.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

Girl Reports Fighting Off An Attacker

A 16-year-old Novato girl yesterday fought off a rapist who assaulted her at a Terra Linda bus stop.

San Rafael police said the girl stepped off a bus near the southbound Highway 101 off ramp at 7:45 p.m. yesterday and was grabbed from behind by a man who pushed her into a clump of nearby bushes.

The man gagged her with her hands, but lost his grip when she bit him, police said. The girl then placed her hands around his neck and flipped him over, grabbed her purse and dashed away.

The attacker was described as about 20 years old, with a Spanish accent. He was wearing dark clothes and fled toward the freeway, police said.

The girl lost her wallet containing about $24, officers said.

Drug Treatment Is Court Order

A man caught in a stolen car has been ordered to enter a San Jose drug treatment program until he is rehabilitated.

Ronald Sydney Johnson, 37, of no fixed address, who pleaded guilty Oct. 4 to concealing a car stolen from an Orange County rental firm, drew the order Tuesday from Judge Charles Read Best of Marin Superior Court.

At the time of his arrest Aug. 5 in San Rafael, according to his probation report, Johnson was on parole from the California Rehabilitation Center and had a long record of drug offenses.

Adult Tennis Hours Approved

Members of the Novato Tennis Club last night asked the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission to permit only adults to use the city's tennis courts after 6 p.m.

The commission said it would post a sign stating that those 15 and older would have sole use of the courts after 7 p.m.

The commission voted to have the staff study the possibility of putting horseshoe pits in Miwok Park.

FELICE D. GUASCO
Longtime grocer

with a friend at the age of 16 in 1910. He first worked in Northern California for a lumber company and then on ranches.

During World War I he enlisted in the Army and went to France with the 20th Engineers.

After the war he came to Marin County and, after working for a short time as a practical nurse and then turning to an ill-fated silk worm venture, he went to work in a small grocery store.

In 1925 he and a relative opened a grocery and produce department in the old San Anselmo Market, which was located where Kaufman's now is. He later bought property and built Guasco's Market on the site it now stands on Center Boulevard.

A second market was operated in Kentfield for about 15 years.

In recent years Guasco's son, Peter, had run the business.

In addition to his work, Guasco spent much time gardening at his Kentfield home, where he raised prize flowers.

The family home is at 119 Oak Avenue, where Guasco lived with his wife, Teresina, whom he married in 1929 during a trip to Italy.

KEATON'S MORTUARY 1022 E Street San Rafael, Calif. 453-0571

"I sold our house myself. But I'd never try to do it again!"

"You know how it is. You hear you can save money if you sell your home yourself. Well, I tried it, and learned a painful lesson the hard way."

I ran an ad and before I knew it, my family's life was turned upside-down. Our phone rang at all hours and total strangers appeared at the door demanding to be shown through. Our flowers were trampled and one day, as we came home, people were sitting on our doorstep.

I thought I had the house sold, but problems of the escrow-impounds, closing costs, title insurance, pre-payment penalty, termite work, eliminating deed encumbrances—delayed everything. (How can this stuff be so complicated!)

Then after all this, the buyer couldn't qualify for a loan. The house was finally sold, but while we were suffering by doing it ourselves, our neighbor's house across the street was sold for 15% more than ours. And it was essentially the same house! His sale was quick, smooth and professionally handled through a Realtor, who knew the true market value of the house. Sell your own home yourself? Take my advice and use a Realtor. You'll be glad you did."

A BIG ASSIGNMENT

Missing Tombstone In Lost And Found

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Memo to whoever may be looking for Rosetta J. Coebel's tombstone: It's in the police department's lost and found section.

The 400 pound tombstone was found Wednesday in a shopping center parking lot in Woodland Hills, where it apparently had been left by pranksters. It is inscribed: "Mother, Rosetta J. Coebel, Feb. 21, 1859 — Nov. 3, 1912." The stone was taken to the West Valley Station to await a claimant.

Sled Dog Teams Will Perform At Sunday Show

An unusual dog show, featuring sled dog teams, dog marching and drill units and canine relay races, will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Marin County Fairgrounds in San Rafael. Admission is free.

The annual Expo K-9, sponsored by Blue Ribbon Dog Breeders, will also feature hunting dog demonstrations and a special parade for champion show and obedience dogs.

The event is also California's only match that gives teenagers a chance to try their hand at judging dogs. Youngsters who sign up at the show will be asked to rate the qualities of basset hounds, collies and West Highland White terriers, and their judging will be judged by veteran owners of the three breeds.

There also will be junior handling competition for children showing their families' purebred dogs in the ring, and competition for amateur men and women handlers.

The Doberman Pinscher agility team that was a highlight of last year's Expo K-9 will return, with its dogs diving through hoops and barrels and leaping up eight-foot walls while carrying raw, unbroken eggs in their mouths.

The Dobermans perform for the reward of getting to eat the egg after completing the obstacle course — and for the crowd's applause — according to Phyllis Greer of Novato, Expo K-9 chairman.

The Vista Del Mar Sheltie team also will return, with the small collie-like dogs dancing through routines with their kilted, teen-age owners.

Sunday will be the debut of the Bernese Mountain Dog drill team. Between performances, some of the big, friendly beasts will join the Great Pyrenees cart dogs in giving youngsters rides around the grounds.

Meanwhile, 800 puppies and adult dogs in almost 100 breeds will compete in 15 judging rings for conformation and obedience ribbons and trophies.

Twenty booths will be manned by experts who can answer questions about various breeds, training, health care and practically every other aspect of owning a dog. Some of the booths will sell dog supplies and grooming equipment.

Hunting dog owners will put their dogs through their paces in and near the lagoon to show how they retrieve game in the water or help locate upland birds.

Highly trained teams of dogs will race each other to find dumbbells and return them to their handlers, in competition that reminds onlookers of Olympics relay events.

Blue Ribbon has staged Expo K-9 at the fairgrounds annually since 1971, but this will be the first year that a "best in show" puppy and adult will be chosen, Mrs. Greer said.

She explained that the dog organization sponsors the show each year, with cooperation from more than a dozen other dog clubs and animal welfare organizations, as the most complete way of showing the public all the various ways a family can enjoy dog ownership.

The day's schedule: 9 a.m. — Judging begins in breed conformation, obedience, junior judging and junior handling rings.

10 a.m. and 3 p.m. — Bernese mountain dog drill team.

10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. — Doberman Pinscher drill team.

11 a.m. and 2 p.m. — Vista Del Mar Sheltie Sheepdog drill and dance team.

11:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. — Doberman Pinscher agility team.

Noon and 4 p.m. — Relay team races.

12:30 p.m. only — Water and upland game dog hunting demonstration.

1:15 p.m. — Sled dog team races, with wheeled carts.

1:30 p.m. — Champion parade. Cart dog rides will be available from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

2 to 4 p.m. — Group and best in show judging for conformation best of breed winners.

Drug Addict Is Allowed Treatment

A San Rafael woman will be allowed to spend a nine-month jail term in a Santa Rosa drug treatment program, a Marin Superior Court judge has decided.

Pamela Mae Wilson, 22, was placed on two years probation by Judge Charles Read Best and ordered to pay $124 to Big G supermarket, where she cashed two bad checks.

Mrs. Wilson was arrested at the supermarket July 26 as she tried to pass a $25 check.

She later pleaded guilty to check forgery and possessing stolen property and admitted passing two other checks, totaling $123 at the market in July.

In recommending two years probation and nine months in jail, Mrs. Wilson's probation officer termed her cooperative and said she voluntarily had committed herself to a Santa Rosa drug program for treatment of narcotics addiction.

Rhodes In Line To Succeed Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Gerald R. Ford is confirmed as vice president, Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., will become the Republican leader in the House. His only remaining opponent, Rep. Leslie Arends, R-Ill., withdrew from contention yesterday.

Rhodes now is expected to be the unanimous choice of the 192 GOP House members for the post.

Arends, who has served in the No. 2 House GOP leadership post of party whip for 20 years, withdrew as a candidate for leader because, "Now more than ever we need unity, not division, in the Republican ranks and in the Republican leadership in Congress."

The 63-year-old Rhodes, serving his 11th consecutive term in Congress, is now chairman of the House GOP Policy Committee.

Tennis Club Is Given Sponsorship By Town

A private tennis club in Corte Madera and Larkspur has opened its membership to the public and last night the Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission agreed to sponsor the group.

The Corte Madera-Larkspur Tennis League was told in September that, to use town park tennis courts as a private club, it would have $1 million in damage and liability insurance. Its request to reduce the insurance requirements to $100,000 was refused by the commission. As a town-sponsored group, the league will have no specific times reserved on town courts and will not have priority for court use over nonleague members.

Its sponsorship is similar to that granted to a group for formation of a summer softball league which uses a town park. The group can use town facilities without posting insurance but has no priority for use of facilities over private citizens.

The park and recreation commission also reviewed plans for development of a mini-park on El Camino Drive and set a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 8 to decide how that park, a lot in town park and play area near Granada Tennis Courts will be developed.

New Classes To Be Offered

A new session of classes offered by the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department will begin Nov. 5 and include baton, judo, tumbling, ballet, yoga, guitar, and flamenco and belly dancing.

Also featured will be classes in art, ceramic sculpture, dramatic self-expression, exploratory perception and stained glass making. Class schedules and registration information are available at the recreation department office, 180 Camino Alto.

No Water Bond, Prop. 1 Support

The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen last night refused to endorse Measure E, the water supply bond issue and voted to oppose Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform measure, Proposition 1. Both will be on the Nov. 6 ballot.

Representatives of three cities voted to endorse the Marin Municipal Water District's bond issue; four opposed the motion and four others abstained.

The vote to oppose Proposition 1 was 6-to-5, with several cities noting their councils were split on the issue.

Mill Valley Mayor Jean Barnard wondered whether passage of Measure E would encourage the water district to "part with its 18,000 acre holdings" of watershed lands since they would be less necessary for the district's future water supplies.

Ross Councilman Roy Farrington Jones declared that Ross and Fairfax had moved to put the water district lands within their spheres of influence, for just this reason. Who knows what's going to happen?" he asked.

Jones then tried to thwart Tiburon Councilman Albert Aramburo's Measure E endorsement motion by moving to table it. He lost by a 6-to-2 vote with three cities abstaining.

Only Larkspur, San Rafael and Tiburon voted to endorse the water bond. Corte Madera, Fairfax, San Anselmo and Sausalito opposed — some by split votes — while Novato councilmen abstained because they're outside the district. Belvedere councilmen were split 2-2 and Mill Valley explained it had one councilman endorsing, one opposed and one abstaining among last night's delegation. Reagan's tax measure was condemned by Larkspur Councilman Joan Sestak, who argued that "SB 90 and this, the son of SB90, would cast in concrete in the (state) constitution," and impose undesirable curbs on city, county and district finances.

Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen charged that the proposition would "violate home rule."

Novato Councilman George C. Quesada defended the reform, arguing that "the fastest growing industry" in California is government, because of its mushrooming work forces. He predicted if the Reagan plan wins, cities would seek new laws to impose local income taxes, which he said he favors.

Corte Madera, Fairfax, Mill Valley, San Anselmo, Sausalito and Tiburon voted to oppose the proposition. Belvedere, Larkspur, Novato, Ross and San Rafael sided with Reagan.

The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen also:

GROWTH CURBS — Heard Larkspur attorney Richard Cunningham, a law professor at Hastings College, report that New Jersey, Pennsylvania and other Eastern states are "seven years ahead" of California in court tests of growth limits similar to Petaluma's. Cunningham doubted whether Petaluma could justify its arbitrary limit of 500 dwelling units a year in court.

CRIME — Endorsed the concept of a "Marin County Central Investigations Unit." Police spokesmen said investigators would spend off-duty time tracking down major offenders in burglary, vice and certain other types of crime. A criminal justice program grant of $8,000 and city contributions will be sought to provide a specially equipped van for the task force.

MEETINGS — Agreed to meet Nov. 28 in Tiburon, Dec. 14 for the annual Christmas Party at Peacock Gap, and Jan. 30 in Belvedere.

War Power Bill Vetoed By President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has vetoed a bill limiting his war powers, calling it "both unconstitutional and dangerous to the best interests of our nation."

In his ninth veto message this year, Nixon charged yesterday that the proposed legislation been on the books in previous crises, such as in Berlin in 1961, Cuba in 1962, the Congo in 1964 or Jordan in 1970, or during the current Middle East war, "America's effective response... would have been vastly complicated or even made impossible."

Immediate reaction in Congress was to denounce the veto. At least three senators, Edmund Muskie, D-Maine; Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., vowed efforts to override it. But congressional sources said it was unlikely supporters of the measure could muster enough votes to override in the House.

The bill, product of a House-Senate compromise, would limit participation of U.S. troops in hostile action abroad to 90 days unless Congress declared war or otherwise authorized fighting.

It also would allow Congress to order an earlier end to any U.S. fighting by a concurrent resolution, not subject to veto.

Concern Over Warm Springs Dam

Marin Municipal Water District directors yesterday expressed "serious concern" about the proposed Warm Springs Dam in Sonoma County. The board also recommended a study of possible enlargement of Coyote Dam as an alternative water source for the district's Russian River Water supply project.

The action came at the urging of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs. A spokesman for the group said the Warm Springs Dam would have "adverse environmental effects" and "growth inducing impact."

At the suggestion of director John M. McPhail, directors shied away from condemning the dam outright. "It seems premature," McPhail said. "We don't know yet if the dam would be good or bad."

Marin Municipal's $7.5 million bond election on the Nov. 6 ballot would finance a fourth of the Russian River project.

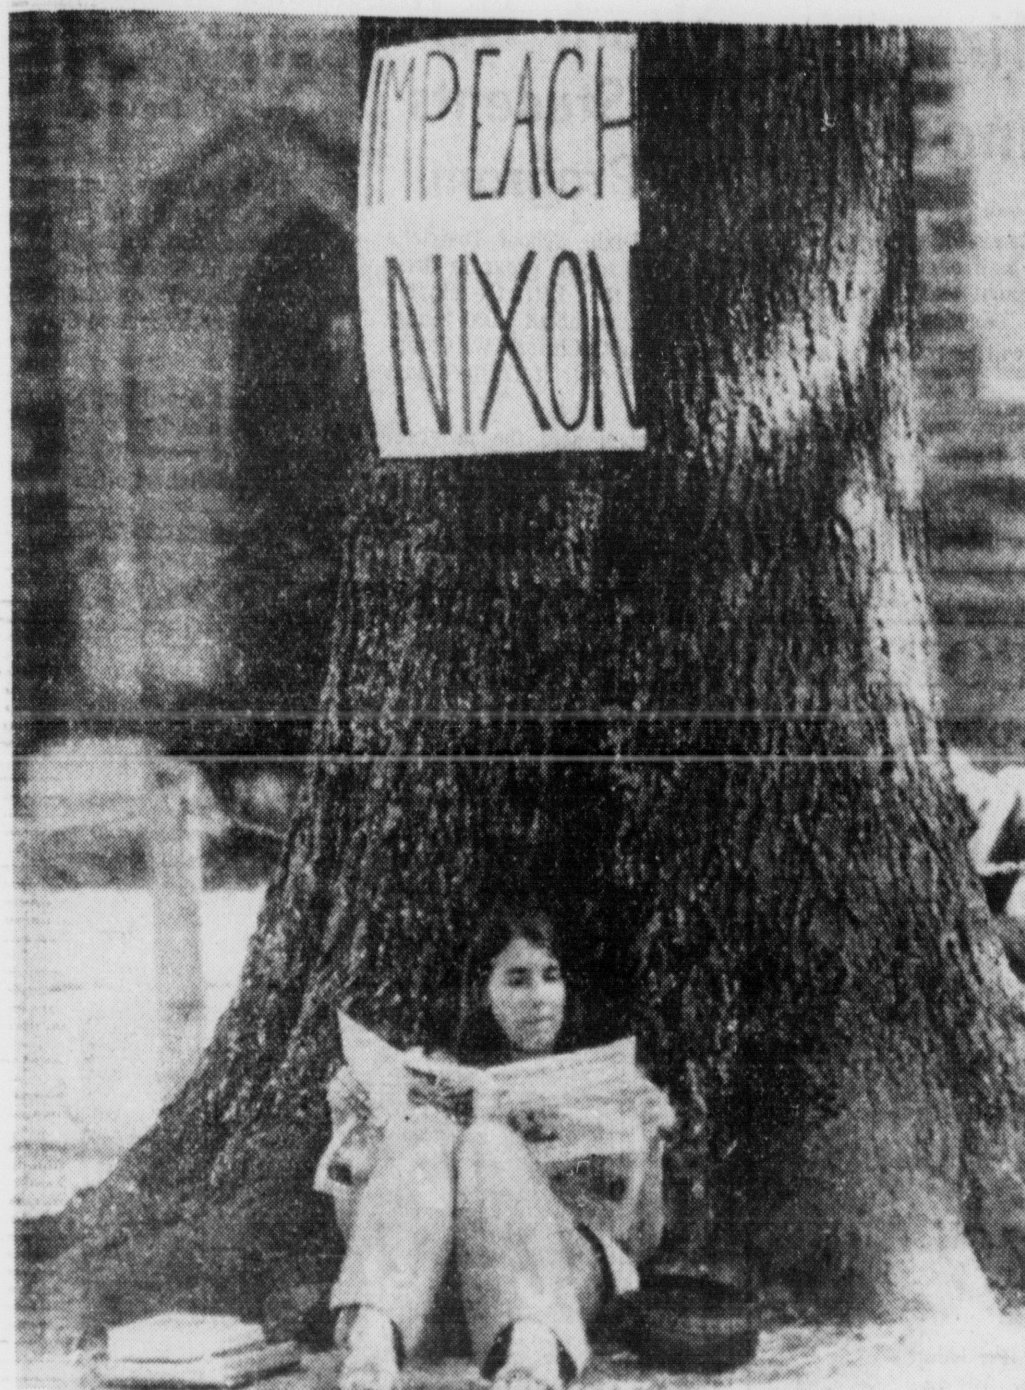

Directors also unanimously supported a study, proposed by the Army Corps of Engineers, of the effects and environmental impacts of water supply projects in the entire Russian River Basin.

The corps of engineers will hold a public hearing on the proposed study in Sonoma Nov. 3, directors were told.

They also turned down a proposal by director Jack R. Felton that every other meeting of the water board be held at night. Director Ronald T. Stafford supported the proposal.

In a later hearing last night, the board heard suggestions from an audience of about 30 persons, several of whom recommended that the district find ways of upgrading sewers in Marin before importing water from Sonoma County.

The suggestions came at a session during which alternatives to the Russian River Water Supply Project were discussed.

Arrest Made In Drug Probe

A Daly City man was arrested last night in Petaluma on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs and passing a forged prescription.

David Henry Fulghum, 25, was booked into Sonoma County Jail to appear today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Police said he was arrested at 8:30 p.m. at the Drug Giant, 613 East Washington Street, where he was trying to have a prescription for amphetamines filled. Officers said the prescription carried the signature of Dr. Angelo J. Leoni of Petaluma.

Police said Fulghum had nearly 400 amphetamine pills in his possession and had successfully passed a prescription at Pay 'N Save, Walgreens and Tuttle Drugs earlier in the day.

Our philosophy: Total Transportation.

This year buying a Volkswagen means buying a new idea as well as a new car.

The idea is called Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket. It's not just a warranty because warranties don't go far enough. It's a commitment to our owners long after they've signed on the dotted line.

Nobody in the car business has any plan like it. Nobody seems to care enough. Or do enough. Nobody except Volkswagen.

We like to think of it as Total Transportation because you deserve a car you can count on 365 days a year. And we believe you shouldn't have to keep paying to get what you deserve.

From the minute you drive away in your '74 Volkswagen you'll be secure knowing you've got the world's most advanced new car coverage plan riding with you.

Take a little time to read this and you'll find out how Volkswagen has changed the reasons for buying a new car. You'll also discover that what's behind our Owner's Security Blanket is as exciting as what's under it.

Our 12 month/20,000 mile guarantee.

Most car owners drive about 14,000 miles during the first year. So what earthly good is a 12,000 mile guarantee? Volkswagen's coverage is for 20,000 miles — most car companies don't come near that.

This is our guarantee, in plain English. If you maintain and service your 1974 Volkswagen as prescribed in the Volkswagen Maintenance Schedule, any factory parts found to be defective in material or workmanship within 12 months or 20,000 miles, whichever comes first (except filters and tires), will be repaired or replaced free of charge by any U.S. or Canadian VW dealer.

We guarantee against more than just defective parts.

Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket goes far beyond just guaranteeing against defects. Most car companies won't replace a windshield wiper if it wears out. We will. They won't replace a lightbulb. We will.

Take things like brake pads and linings. As long as you have them adjusted when your Maintenance Schedule says so, we'll replace them free if they wear out. Same thing goes for clutch linings and batteries.

And spark plugs and points? We change them free at 12,000 miles and we'll honor that no matter how long it takes you to go that distance. This is unheard of in the auto industry.

24 months/24,000 miles.

We've gone one step further with the inside of our engine and transmission. We guarantee them for two years or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first. Of course we don't cover defects caused by lack of maintenance or abuse.

We guarantee our repairs.

When you're running out of warranty you're still not out of luck. We'll make the repair free and guarantee the parts and workmanship for an additional 6 months or 6,000 miles.

If the repair takes overnight, we'll lend you a car.

Moving right along, we're committed to keep you moving. So if you're a qualified owner and you find that a warranty repair is going to take overnight, we'll lend you a free car by appointment for as long as the repair takes.

And we haven't forgotten owners of older VWs. If your car needs a repair and you need a car, we'll rent you one at a nominal price.

Express care.

How many times have you heard of waiting two weeks before you can get a headlight fixed? Not at Volkswagen. With Express Care if we can fix something in less than 30 minutes, we'll do it while you wait. No appointment needed for these little repairs, because who needs aggravation?

3 free computer check-ups.

Another car maker in the world has anything like Computer Analysis. (They probably will some day in the future.)

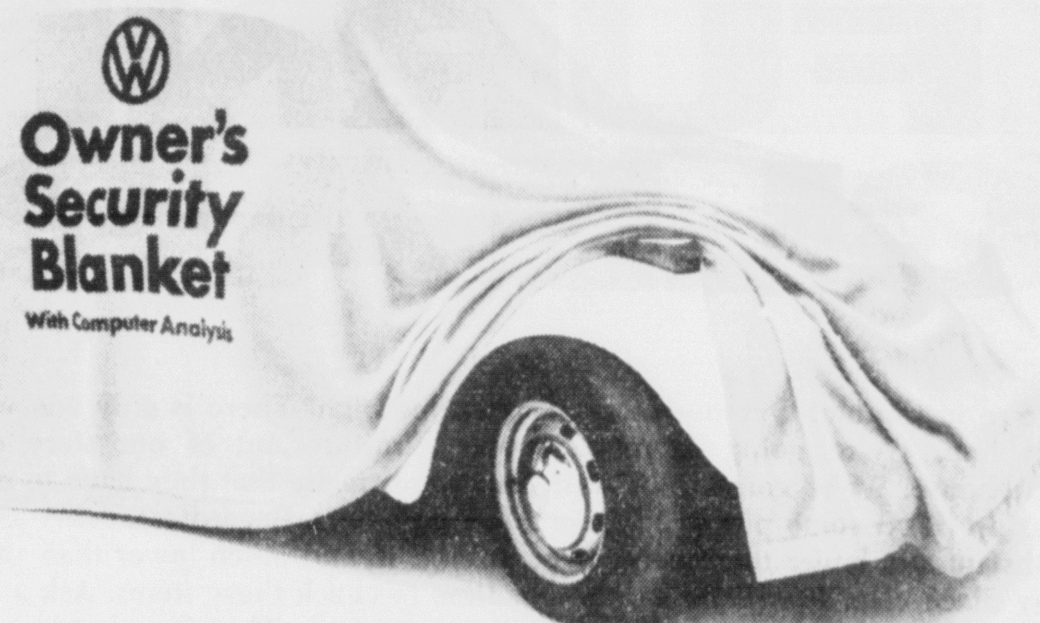

Every 1974 Volkswagen can be plugged into a computer and out comes a written analysis of over 50 vital functions. Everything from your engine compression down to your battery voltage.

Computer Analysis can spot things that even a master mechanic might not see. So we can fix these things while you're still covered by our Owner's Security Blanket.

We're in this together.

We made the car. You own the car. So we're in this together. As long as you maintain your new Volkswagen properly we'll do most of the worrying for you. That's what Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket is all about — once you're a Volkswagen Owner, we're not going to leave you out in the cold.

LONE SURVIVOR

Crash Victim Continues
Agonizing Fight For Life

BOSTON (UPI) —For three months, Leopold Chouinard has been waging a private, silent fight against pain and sometimes agony.

Chouinard, 20, an Air Force sergeant from Marshfield, Vt., was the only survivor of the 89 persons aboard a Delta DC9 jetliner that crashed July 31 at Logan Airport. Eighty per cent of his body was covered with third degree burns and both of his legs were amputated. His condition still is listed as critical.

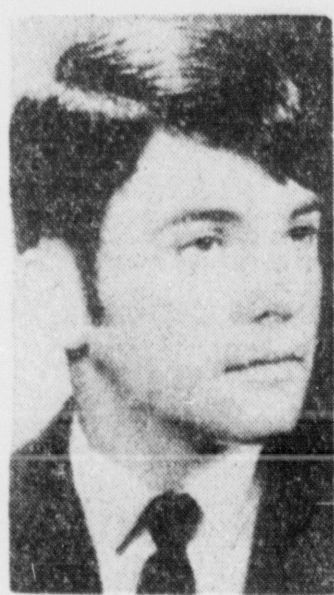

Spokesmen for Massachusetts General Hospital said Chouinard has had a number of things going for him, including his own courage and will to live. Throughout his ordeal, he has had:

Unwavering loyalty from his fiancée, Brenda Newton, 19, who said after the accident: "I love him, I can take care of him forever." She visits her fiancée regularly. The visits are private, and she has declined to discuss Chouinard's case with newsmen.

The day-to-day loyalty of his parents, who also shield Miss Newton from public attention.

The exceptional treatment facilities of the Massachusetts General Hospital burn center.

His own willpower which has enabled him to endure tortu-ously slow treatment, including skin grafts.

A hospital spokesman described Chouinard's adjustment as "remarkable."

For the first several weeks of his treatment, the former Air Force chaplain's aide had to lie on his back as skin grafting began. Because so little skin could be grafted, layers of skin were separated and then harvested again to cover the most critically burned areas.

Doctors said skin also was stretched in the grafting process to make it possible to cover as much of the surface as possible.

Throughout the process, Chouinard has remained cheerful and cooperative, hospital aides said.

Progress is being made in grafting, despite the ever present danger of infection.

Doctors now are grafting skin on his back. Instead of lying always on his back, he now has changed positions to assure the minimum of discomfort.

It will take, one source says, another two months or more to complete the grafting of skin to his back.

If that succeeds, hospital officials are hopeful Chouinard can be removed finally from the critical list.

Man Found Guilty
In Flycaster Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sigmund Leonard, 23, has been found guilty of the murder of world-champion flycaster Jon Tarrantino June 11 at his grocery store here.

Superior Court Judge F. Lee Vavuris said yesterday he would sentence Leonard Nov. 14.

Theft Of Gold
Jewelry Denied

The burglary of $600 worth of gold jewelry from a Sausalito store was denied yesterday by Ronald Manly Bystrom, 26, of Sausalito.

A preliminary hearing was set Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court. Sausalito police said Bystrom took the jewelry Tuesday, then ran into a nearby restaurant when police approached.

He was arrested inside a restroom and the stolen items were found inside the water tank of a toilet, according to police.

San Rafael Hires
First Park Ranger

A 28-year-old Monterey County parks employee will become San Rafael's first park ranger Nov. 1.

Bruce M. Gallaher, of San Antonio Lake, Bradley, Monterey County, was hired from a field of 67 candidates to assume the duty of patrolling city open space land, Parks and Recreation Director Andrew J. Snyder reported today.

Gallaher, a park ranger in Monterey since 1970, will patrol city lands in a jeep equipped with radio communication equipment and "quite possibly a gun," Snyder said.

He will be trained as a police officer, according to the city administration.

Gallaher, a graduate of Chico State University, has also worked in the City of Chico parks department.

He will be paid $930 monthly.

Nearly Half
Of Students
In Program

The Dixie School District's summer school program drew half of the district's eligible children, or about 1,900 youngsters, Supt. Clifford W. Campbell told district trustees last night.

Campbell said the program for kindergarten through third grade youngsters is based on nature study and ecology, while older children are allowed to choose electives. Most popular courses among the older group were craft and shop programs, he said.

In other business, trustees earned that the district junior high honor chorus, directed by Jan Chaffin, has been invited to perform at a music workshop in January at San Francisco State University.

The district board postponed a review of an auditor's report, and will next meet at 8 p.m. Nov. 14 in the district office.

OVERSTOCKED SALE!

FURNITURE CLEARANCE

We're in trouble! Our inventory is much too high! There is only one way to solve this problem. We're going to move excess furniture out of our store and out of our warehouse. We're going to price items so drastically that they have to move. We'll take our profit off some pieces . . . take a loss on others. Regardless, every sale piece will be substantially lower than we've ever offered it, and much lower than you would find it any place else. It will be worth your time to check these items. Ask a staff member to point them out to you. Not all will be marked. This is a last minute desperation decision. If the public recognizes these values for what they are . . . we'll be moving additional stock from our warehouse so fast they may not all be marked.

Synanon Takes A Corporate Role

Synanon facilities, and spokesmen estimate the average stay is about two and one-half years. Some persons leave to carry the philosophy to the outside world, some depart disagreeing with its tenets, and a growing core remain as lifetime residents.

About 20 per cent of the national organization's 1,600 residents are "lifestylers" — persons with no deep personal problems who joined Synanon out of belief in its communal philosophy.

The central ritual in the lives of all residents," according to Dederich, who is still in overall control of management and policy, is the Synanon Game. All members, from children on up to the oldest member, play it at least once a week.

The game is, he said recently in a court statement, a form of group interaction in which totally uninhibited language is encouraged in order to bring out the full range of human emotions, from rage or tears to laughter and love. It is an "educational tool," he said, designed to accomplish "a unification and healing of the personality . . . and the adoption of new and sounder value systems."

The traumatic aspects of the game are over-publicized, in the view of Sharon Green, who is an attorney for the foundation. It has given her, she says, "a much deeper relationship with many people than I ever had on a one-to-one basis before" and is also used for a frank airing of the minor complaints most people don't know how to handle in everyday life.

The communal lifestyle is epitomized in the residential buildings, nearly all of which lack cooking facilities because members eat in the big cafeteria and recreation halls. There is variety in the housing, however, and those with a better record for work and responsibility get better quarters.

At the Tomales Bay site an L-3 reporter recently was shown a living unit in one of the dwellings known as "The Caves." It consisted of one pleasantly furnished bedroom and bath for a wife whose husband lives in a similar unit next door. Other married couples may choose to be housed together, Miss Green said, but a high percentage of the members are single.

Another building christened "The Hatchery" is for pregnant women who can remain until their babies are 9 months old. At that age the infants are sent first to a communal nursery and later to the Synanon school. Parents can see their children whenever they wish, but it is the community which cares for them and takes pressure off individual parents, Miss Green said.

The wealth implicit in the tasteful furnishings, the modern equipment, the new outbuildings going up on the ranches, are pointed out by Dederich's as evidence that Synanon is the forefront of a movement that can change the world's thinking.

"I don't believe the world can be changed from an orange crate in a Salvation Army dump," he told some residents recently. "That's why I want Synanon people to think like rich people, to think like people who have power, to not be inferior to people."

Unlike most communes, Synanon's financial statements over the past few years indicate it is a growing, wealthy corporation. Assets of $13.4 million and a net worth of $4.6 million were shown on its 1972 return to the State Registry of Charitable Trusts. This represented a healthy increase over the $12 million in assets and a net worth of $3.8 million listed in 1971.

Revenues come almost entirely from two main sources: contributions and the profits of Synanon Industries. In 1972 Synanon Foundation declared a total revenue of $3.9 million of which $2.1 million was contributions while $1.6 million were gross profits from Synanon Industries.

The donations are the gifts of money, real estate or tangible goods "hustled" by members. The gifts may be anything from a swayed-back horse to the Univac Series 70/35 computer donated by Sperry-Rand Corp. early this year. The 5-year-old computer, refurbished by the corporation, is worth several hundred thousand dollars and handles much of the paperwork at the Tomales Bay business headquarters.

Synanon Industries, described by the foundation as "a significant part of the program leading to reeducation and rehabilitation," merchandises advertising specialties such as pens or pencils and operates one service station. It is exempt from both property and income taxes as a related activity.

Although one gripe among some of its West Marin neighbors is the organization's tax exempt status, property taxes in the amount of $7,152 were paid on the Walker Creek ranch this past year due to the insistence of County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel.

Broemmel based his case on the fact that some of the cattle pastured at the ranch belonged to rancher Boyd Stewart. Synanon, claiming the cattle were being used to train residents and were therefore exempt, appealed to the State Board of Equalization, which upheld the claim.

"I exercised my prerogative and overruled the state board," Broemmel said. As a result the land is now taxed in proportion to the amount used by Stewart's cattle.

The total 1973-74 tax bill if all three local properties lose their exemption, according to county tax collector Stanley J. Fontez, would be $73,220. The market value of land and improvements is $3,367,800, according to the county assessor's office.

Comments by county officials on the Synanon activities are generally friendly, however, although county planners believe a limit should be set on future growth.

"They are a private organization taking care of people in an exemplary way," says planning director Werner von Gundell. But, he believes, population controls must be set on Synanon's ranches and on other agricultural communes present or planned in order to preserve the Marin County general plan.

(Tomorrow: Is Synanon beyond controls imposed on other property owners?)

President Albert? It's A Possibility

President Carl Albert?
It's not an impossibility, by any means.
Any sort of predicting on the Washington scene is in the nature of wild speculation, what with President Nixon's off-again, on-again decisions on the White House tapes and Congress's off-again, on-again discussions of confirmation of Gerald R. Ford as vice president. But the possibility of President Albert is there.

THE SCENARIO runs like this:

IF Congress were to hold up confirmation of Ford during the investigation of possible impeachment of the president, and

IF the House of Representatives were to vote to impeach Nixon and the Senate were to try him and remove him from office, then —

The "little giant from little Dixie" would become president. As speaker of the House, he is next in line for the presidency under succession legislation which was adopted as a result of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

IF ALBERT were to become president, he would be the first to get to the White House via the speakership without running for the top office.

He would also be the smallest man in physical stature ever to occupy the presidency. He stands only 5 feet 4 inches tall — a little shorter than Martin Van Buren.

Albert is known as the "little giant from little Dixie" because of that small stature and because the district around McAlester, Okla., which he has represented in Congress since 1946 is called "Little Dixie" as being more southern than western.

His repeated re-election from that district shows how Albert stands with the home folks. His steady climb up the ladder in the House, to Democratic whip, to majority leader, and finally to speaker, shows how he stands with his fellow Democratic congressmen. But to most Americans, Carl Albert is not much nearer a household word than was Spiro Agnew in 1968.

ALBERT FITS to perfection, however, the sometimes-mythical rags-to-riches success story epitomized in the old saying that any boy born in the U.S. may some day be president (maybe any girl, too, before long).

He was born in the tiny community of Flower Mound, Okla. (earlier called Big Tussle) and attended a one-room elementary school there. He was valedictorian of his class at McAlester High School and there won a national oratorical contest and a trip to England. At University of Oklahoma, he won another national speaking contest. He attended Oxford as a Rhodes scholar. He went to Washington as a legal clerk in the Federal Housing Administration, then worked as accountant and attorney for two oil companies, practicing law on the side in McAlester, Oklahoma City, and Mattoon, Ill.

Then came World War II. He enlisted as a private before Pearl Harbor, went to Officer Candidate School, served in the Pacific, and emerged as a lieutenant colonel and holder of the Bronze Star.

THEN HE ENTERED politics, as candidate for Congress from his home district. He won, and has won ever since.

He has been most critical of the Nixon administration for its alleged shortcomings in the domestic field. He backed Nixon's Vietnam policies until the resumption of bombing late last year.

He has never sought higher office than the House of Representatives. If the mantle of the presidency were ever to fall on him, it would be by chance alone, not by his seeking.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

High Rates Of Interest Draw Solons' Attention

The indifference to usury by lawmakers who otherwise have been exhibiting great empathy for consumer protection is doing an about-face.

The word "usury" derives from the Latin "usura" which simply means interest paid. Black defines usury as "unlawful interest" while Webster says it is "an exorbitant rate of interest." The Webster definition is more appropriate in California, since there is very little regulation.

During the depression a major legislative battle ensued over interest charges for personal loans. It was aimed chiefly at pawnbrokers since about all people had to hock in those days were their watches and wedding rings.

As it stands, that is about all that is controlled. Loans to finance home purchases which, next to automobiles, are the largest capital outlays for the average citizen, go largely unregulated. Banks and others may charge whatever interest the traffic will bear. And, while second mortgage interest is limited to 10 per cent, the brokers have devised ways of skirting the intended limits of return to the lenders by other charges.

IT IS IN THIS area that the solons have sighted in. Just signed into law is a bill by Sen. James E. Whetmore, R-Garden Grove. It prohibits credit life insurance as a requirement and bars adding premiums for insurance to the loan total. That has been one method by which second lenders escaped regulation. It also establishes a maximum late charge on payments and limits prepayment charges to six months' interest.

Bills by Assemblymen Waddie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista, and Richard D. Hayden, R-Sunnyvale, seek to establish similar limits on first mortgages.

While the banks have generally been circumspect in such matters, some savings and loan companies have given the entire group a blackeye by assessing unconscionable charges.

Times have changed and recent court actions have signaled the necessity for legislation and brought about reasonableness on the part of the lenders.

THE DEDDEH MEASURE is hung up in the Senate by those who feel that a 10 per cent late charge is too much. Arguing that a maximum immediately becomes a minimum, they are holding out for four per cent but have indicated a compromise for six.

There is also disagreement on the prepayment limits proposed in the Hayden bill. It would allow 20 per cent repayment in any one year without penalty and six months' interest on the remainder. This is okay with the lenders but some who feel repaying privileges should be more liberal are battling.

In times of rising interest rates, one wonders why there should be any prepayment charge, since the lender can turn around and re-loan at higher interest.

That there is a need for regulating money lending is generally agreed and the Whetmore, Deddeh and Hayden bills are in the right direction. But until maximum interest rates are established, the job will not be complete. Even then, unless the covert practice of charging "points" for loans is outlawed, interest maximums will be meaningless.

Then there is still the area of furniture and auto loans which enjoy great freedom to make loans at rates far beyond what is charged for more orthodox lending.

It is interesting to note that in the vast area of consumer credit, gasoline and department store charges, the interest limit set in California at 18 per cent is far greater than in many other states.

Sexless Con Artists Bilk Sexless Victim

Your front page headlines, "Female Con Artists Clip Elderly San Rafael Woman," was reminiscent of late unlamented type heads such as "Blacks Hold Up Liquor Store," "Mexican Youth This," "Chinese Man That," etc.

You have given up identifying (stereotyping) the accused by skin color; how about the same for skin shape?

As one who picks up all women hitch hikers on the assumption that women need rides and do not rob and attack one another, I found your story newsworthy and informative but no more so than the Chronicle's with its less inflammatory head, "A $2,400 Version of the Pigeon Drop."

The I-J has been way out front in serious, free coverage of the current women's movement. Don't spoil it with cheap shot news headlines on female behavior.

Ski Swap Helpful To Science Museum

The headline was alliterative and apt: "Ski Swap Scores Success." Indeed it did.

The Boyd Museum is most proud of the fine efforts of the Marin Ski Swap, and is grateful to the Independent-Journal for its recognition of this most successful and unusual fund-raiser. In its eighth year, the Ski Swap was bigger and better than ever.

The generous participation of hundreds of guild members, husbands, children and friends of the Boyd Museum made the ski swap possible. Because of such outstanding programs of environmental education and of wildlife refuge to Marin County. The new bear structure, the new entranceway, the improved animal care facilities, the expanded Docent program — all these and more are a result of those who contribute time and money to the museum's operation.

Tam Valley Needs Recreation Facilities

The Golden Gate National Recreation Area has assured Tamalpais Valley residents of plentiful open space. We do not need more. Tam Valley does own considerable land for park purposes but present recreational facilities are non-existent. I would like to see a swimming pool and a ball park close to home, available to adults and children alike.

As an active sports enthusiast, a mother and a resident of Tam Valley, I am writing to encourage candidates to the T.V.S.D. board to work toward developing these facilities. There is a growing interest in the up-coming election because of this recreational issue. One candidate in particular, entered as a write-in, promises to pursue this goal. Let us give her our whole-hearted support on Nov. 6.

Method Of Funding College Budget Questioned

Your editorial questioning the "tax-reform" of last year's SB 90 and this year's AB 1267 was most appropriate. Obviously, many of the local school districts have already found ways to increase the property tax through the loopholes.

What you did not mention, however, was that even those school districts with the same or lower budgets, may be suspect.

For example, the Marin Community College District budget you noted in an earlier article reflected the same tax rate as last year, with a spending program $5,500,000 greater than last year. The increased assessment of our homes helped cover the budget increases without raising the tax rate. Worse than this, however, was the technique the board used of making the budget look smaller than it actually is. They literally "borrowed from themselves" by keeping out of the budget the early stages of future construction projects.

Since such administrative practices are beyond the awareness of the average homeowners, taxpayers, voters, we will probably continue to suffer from such fiscal skulduggery until effective citizens advisory committees can be involved.

Bouquets All Around In Dispute Over Book

As Fairfax residents who have attended the school board meetings re "Go Ask Alice," read the I-J reports and discussed the issue with many interested parties, we believe a few bouquets are in order.

First to Roberta Laidley for bringing the issue to the community's attention. Second to the I-J for their reporting and editorializing, next to the Fairfax School Board for their fair decision and lastly to all who voiced opinions, whether pro or con, for their interest.

This type of interaction shows that even though we may not all agree, we are thinking about our children and we do care.

Reason For Supervisors' Opposition To Prop. 1

It is very interesting to read that the county supervisors oppose the Reagan tax initiative on the November ballot. Their claim that it will raise local property taxes is insipid, and, as usual, misses the point.

It makes no difference who the taxing agent is — local, state, or federal — the money still comes out of the pockets of each individual. It's just that each taxing agency wants to pass the buck to someone else and thereby "absolve" themselves of any responsibility for increasing taxes. They are always looking to some higher agency for help. But where does that higher agency get its money?

Even if county taxes do go up (which is not at all a certainty resulting from the initiative), all we would have is a shift in the proportion collected by each agency, not an increase in over-all taxes. It's just that from a county standpoint, the shift is in the wrong direction.

The point of the initiative is that a ceiling — at long last — is being placed on the additional money that can be raised via taxes. It does not cut the dollar level of these revenues.

Legislators are going to have to learn to live within the state's means just as every individual (at some point) has to learn to live within his means. This is far preferable to a system where forecasted expenditures are merely added together, and if revenue is exceeded, a scramble ensues to find more money.

Wouldn't It Be Nice If EPA Set Example?

In reference to the front page article of Oct. 16, "Agency Aims Guns at Motoring Public" — I am assuming all persons now working for the Environmental Protection Agency will give up their government cars and start riding public transit. Gee, wouldn't that be a wonderful example for us car owners?

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

There's nothing like a guilty conscience to make a fellow shape up and fly right.

In Milford, Ind., it took a busted water main to activate the guilty consciences of the town's citizens.

Unaware of the reason for the shutdown, householders flocked to city hall to pay their overdue bills.

The annoying thing about a guilty conscience is that you can't blame it on somebody else.

Most folks are willing to do the right thing, provided they know their utilities will be cut off if they don't.

MARQUIS CHILDS

As Nation Faces Shortage Of Oil, Laird Advises, 'Buy Sweaters'

WASHINGTON — Buy sweaters! That is the cheerful advice from White House domestic counselor Melvin R. Laird on how to beat the oil shortage. It comes after months of bumbling and hesitation on how to meet an energy shortage plainly visible for at least two or three years.

Gasoline prices are moving up and will go higher. Now the threat of an increase in the cost of natural gas hitting millions of householders across the country is the storm center of a fierce struggle.

The Nixon administration and the big oil companies that control most of the gas are calling for complete deregulation, taking away the authority of the Federal Power Commission to put a brake on prices the major producers can charge. The argument backed by oil company scare propaganda on the energy shortage is that deregulation will make it possible to bring in new gas reserves, thanks to larger earnings.

THE CHALLENGE comes from Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois. He proposes to deregulate all but the 70 largest producers out of the total of 4,700 in the industry. With the lid entirely off, Stevenson contends, the Big Four would come in for $8 billion in windfall profits in a relatively few years. For the consumer it could mean a rise from the average price of 24 cents a unit to 75 to 80 cents. The householders' bill would be doubled and then some in short order.

The impact of this is measured against the fact that nearly one-third of all energy uses are derived from natural gas. The cost to industry would zoom and that cost would inevitably be passed on to the consumer. For all the pious platitudes about controlling inflation, here is a primary source with the blessing of an administration putting out these platitudes.

One indication that the votes may be there for passage of the Stevenson proposal is the volume of propaganda from the oil companies and the intensity of the lobbying on Capitol Hill. Actually, the Stevenson bill calls for modified and streamlined regulation of the big producers. The senator contends this would make for quicker action and be an insurance against windfall profits.

THE BIG BOYS have powerful friends on the Hill. Chief among them is Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, who has had the candor to describe himself as the darling of the oil industry. Chairman of the Finance Committee, he wields great influence on all matters concerned with business and industry. Long opposes the Stevenson bill.

The House has just passed a sweeping measure calling for allocation not only of natural gas and propane but of crude oil, gasoline and virtually all petroleum products. The Nixon energy czar, former Colorado Gov. John A. Love, came out against such broad regulation. He argues that only a limited allocation such as he has put into effect for heating and diesel fuels can be workable.

Granted that the production and distribution of petroleum products in a nation wedded to the internal combustion engine is so complicated as almost to defy regulation, which is Love's point, nevertheless the failure to confront the shortages and the price spiral seems inexcusable.

THE OWNER of a gas guzzler, a Cadillac or a Lincoln Continental, pays the same price as the driver of a battered Plymouth. Figures show that car owners in the income range from $3,000 to $10,000 a year do more driving than those in higher income brackets. That is partly because of the necessity to commute long distances to jobs in remote areas.

Last summer Love's office considered imposing a 10-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax, which would have meant a 25 per cent price increase. That was abandoned because of the obvious inequity. Now task forces are considering the possibility of a tax on horsepower or on the weight of a car. That could put a limit on the gas guzzlers.

But in the interval between the report of a task force, a high-level White House decision and the response of the House Ways and Means Committee, the political weather — not to mention the climate — can get very cold. The answer calls for more than sweaters.

ART BUCHWALD

How To Conserve In Fuel Crisis: Have TV Slant Weather Reports

WASHINGTON — Our TV commentators have indicated that we can survive the oil shortage this winter if everyone will conserve on their heat by two or three degrees.

If this is not too much to ask, it is my personal opinion that television could play a major role in what could be the worst fuel crisis in our history.

We have all become such victims of the power of TV suggestion that, in my opinion, we easily could be brainwashed into believing that this was the mildest winter in our history.

It would require a certain amount of news slanting on the part of the networks and local stations, but it would be worth it if we can save the fuel.

I PROPOSE that the people in charge of giving us reports on television lie about the weather. If it's cold out, they must report it's mild; if it's going to snow, they must refrain from mentioning it. The words "blizzard," "ice storms" and "frost" must be banned from the air.

For the next six months, any temperatures below 40 degrees may not be reported for national security reasons.

The keys to this plan are the "Today" and "CBS Morning News" shows. All over America people wake up, turn on the television, and listen to what Frank Blair and Hughes Rudd have to say about the weather.

They are, in effect, our national weathermen. Whatever they report affects every home in the United States. If their maps indicate freezing weather, the housewife automatically turns up her thermostat three degrees. If they say their area can expect sunny skies, the wives turn their thermostats down. It doesn't make any difference what is going on outside the house; everyone knows that television doesn't lie.

The local stations, which all have their own weather shows, must also join in the conspiracy. If the Billings, Mont., station would give a favorable forecast for a subzero day, they could save enough fuel to light all the neon signs in Las Vegas. If the Portland, Me., TV station would advise everyone in January to go to the beach, we would have enough fuel to bus 3,000 fans to the Super Bowl.

IT IS A KNOWN FACT that weather is all in people's imaginations. If someone in authority tells them it isn't going to snow, they'll happily plow through drifts without giving it a second thought.

If the weather announcer promises a balmy week end in February, perfect for golf and tennis, people won't even know they're playing on ice.

I know there may be some resistance by network and local news departments to lying about the weather. But it's being done in the Soviet Union and many of the Iron Curtain countries with great success. If it weren't for Soviet television telling the Russian people how nice it was outside in December, I doubt if any of them would live there for more than one winter.

Larkspur To Govern Stores' Floor Space

Large stores and shopping centers with floor areas of 100,000 square feet or more will be subject to stricter review procedures under an ordinance passed Tuesday by the Larkspur Planning Commission.

missioner Otto Hoefler absent, will give the city more review power over major projects, according to John A. Roberto, planning director.

Specifically, it will allow more review of the proposed Larkspur regional shopping center than is possible under existing ordinances, he said.

At present, any retail outlet which meets all zoning requirements needs only design approval, according to Roberto, who said such projects reach the city council only if the planning commission ruling is appealed.

Under the new ordinance, the projects would come before the city council if three councilmen request it.

The planning commission recommended that the ordinance be passed as an "urgency measure" by the city council. Urgency measures require four-fifths vote of the council for passage but can be passed the night they are introduced and become effective immediately.

The commission also passed a resolution recommending that the Heerdt Marsh be retained for ecological purposes and endorsed efforts of nonprofit groups to obtain the marsh as open space.

Public hearing on the environmental impact report on the proposed shopping center was changed from the commissions Nov. 13 meeting to its Nov. 27 session.

Led by a truck from the Novato Fire Department, the parade will feature the Tomales High School band, Novato Horsemen's Association color guard, Novato High School Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps drill team and other marching groups, according to parade chairmen Mrs. Robert Musants, Mrs. Peter Jaber and Joseph H. West.

There will be floats, and decoated vehicles which are pulled, pushed or pedaled. Motor vehicles are not eligible.

Young and old alike will march in costumes in the parade.

These Canada geese were photographed at the Horicon National Wildlife Refuge in Wisconsin. They rested for a week midway along the 1,000-mile journey between their Hudson Bay summer territory and their wintering grounds near the junction of the Ohio and the Mississippi rivers. The first part of their flight is made in about 12 straight hours. The birds attain great altitudes in search of good tailwinds, which can help propel them as fast as 70 miles per hour for the entire 12 hours. They replenish themselves by eating about half a pound of food apiece per day at Horicon.

Post Says Legislature Might Ask BART To Dismiss Stokes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Analyst A. Alan Post predicts that the state legislature may conclude that it would be sensible to tell Bay Area Rapid Transit District directors to "get rid" of their general manager.

Post, analyst for the legislature, added yesterday that the law makers may also tell directors to "get someone who can deliver."

His criticism of general manager B. R. Stokes came at a hearing by the state Senate Public Utilities Committee into why the $1 billion rail system is five years late in completing its San Francisco-Oakland link.

Post said that Stokes, a former newspaperman, "is an expert in public relations," but added that the district's problems were not "associated with public relations."

"The district's board of directors should evaluate the general manager's position from the standpoint of his ability to solve the very real problems that exist . . ." he added.

The general manager needs to make some real decisions and have "the guts" to carry them out," Post declared.

Post forecast that the district would have to come to the legislature next January for financial help and said that is when lawmakers may ask that Stokes be fired.

Stokes, at home with influenza, did not attend the hearing.

Post, outlining BART's problems, noted the system can't operate its transbay link until the state is satisfied its computers are efficient enough to prevent accidents.

Because of the delay, Post said BART would probably collect only $5.5 million in fares for the year ending June 30 instead of the $8.7 million it had predicted.

The analyst declared it was unlikely that fares ever would pay BART's costs, but said, "We feel they have a strong obligation to reduce operating costs as much as possible."

He suggested that district stop reimbursing employees "for taking each other to luncheons and dinners."

Quentin Kopp, San Francisco supervisor and BART director, urged that the attorney general invoke grand jury if BART fails to sue its major suppliers for damages the day the system goes into full-time operation.

League Of Cities Takes No Stand On Proposition 1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Delegates to the League of California Cities convention repudiated their directors yesterday and voted to take no stand on Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax limitation initiative.

The league's board of directors had voted unanimously in July to oppose Proposition 1 in the November but, after hearing a talk by the governor, delegates voted 138-107 to take no stand.

In his speech, the governor said the defeat of the initiative would be "taken as a spending mandate by politicians all across this land."

"But a 'yes' vote will serve notice that the people do care and even the tax eaters in those puzzle palaces on the Potomac will have to take heed."

Canal Boundary Dispute Postponed Third Month

I-J Special Report
SACRAMENTO — Settlement of boundary disputes between the state and property owners along San Rafael Canal has been postponed for the third month in a row by the staff of the State Lands Commission. The commission was expected to approve a survey of the canal in August, but the staff said then that more time was needed to review the survey by Hoffman and Albritton of San Rafael. Title companies also have been checking the survey and have asked for more details.

The issue was set for the September meeting, then postponed again to today's monthly session, but did not appear on the agenda.

A staff spokesman said the survey now was expected to come before the commission on Nov. 29.

Its approval by the commission, however, will not end the long dispute. Each property owner then will have to negotiate a boundary settlement with the City of San Rafael. Each settlement then will have to be submitted to the state commission's staff for its review and approval.

The knotty dispute has seemed near settlement many times over recent years, but repeatedly has run into staff claims of flaws in proposed agreements.

The problem resulted from a past straightening of the canal. The state never gave up title to the old canal, so property owners have been unable to develop or sell because state claims cloud their title.

Reward Offered By Tenant Group

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Association for the Protection of Tenants yesterday announced it is offering a $250 reward for anyone who helps catch the killer of any apartment house tenant.

David Herndon, president of the organization, said the reward is being posted because several persons have been slain recently near their residences.

Bicentennial Theme For Annual Festival

By BARBARA HOSMER
Betsy Ross, of course. It all began to fall into place coincidentally after Mrs. Walter Smith of San Rafael began her research of women in history depicted sewing.

A committee member of St. Anne's Service League of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, a group of women who sew, Mrs. Smith began thinking about a theme for this year's Pine Cone Festival. She had collected pictures of sculpture and paintings of women doing needlework when she and her husband toured Europe the past summer.

Then she lit upon Betsy Ross, who reputedly made the first American flag. What better theme with the American Bicentennial coming up?

Then she found a direct descendant of Betsy Ross belonged to St. Gerard F. Daly. And it had just turned out that Marty Daly's daughter, Pam, has requested that her mother make her a Betsy Ross costume for Halloween.

"I'm about a seventh generation," Mrs. Daly said of her famous ancestor. She agreed that Betsy Ross had likely made the first American flag, as both she and Mrs. Smith has found that Betsy Ross had run an upholstery, needlework and flagmaking shop in Philadelphia and Betsy's brother-in-law was a close friend of George Washington.

It further turned out that Marin has two direct descendants of Betsy Ross, and that they were friends before they found out about their common ancestor. Mrs. William D. Keleher of Kentfield is similarly related to Betsy Ross, said Mrs. Daly.

"We were friends and one day chatted about where we were from in the East, and Claire Keleher said she was a descendant of Betsy Ross. 'So am I,' I said," explained Mrs. Daly.

Comparing their family trees, the two women found that they both were descended from Betsy Ross, or Elizabeth Claypoole by a later marriage, through two of her four daughters. The sisters were Jane Canby, Claire Keleher's relative, and Susan Satherwaite, Marty Daly's ancestor.

Betsy Ross's sewing table, a pedestal table made without nails, now stands in Mrs. Keleher's home, having come to her through the Canby family.

Both women have relatives who have written books about Betsy Ross, one called "Betsy Ross—Quaker Rebel," and the other "Evolution of the American Flag."

"Her life would make a great movie," said Mrs. Daly with a laugh. She showed a newspaper clipping of herself as a child seated in the Betsy Ross house in Philadelphia. They did all kinds of patriotic things like that during the war, she explained.

"People don't care so much about these things out here as they do in the East," she said about having an ancestor known to every school child. Currently she is taking a quilting course, but it's purely coincidental, Mrs. Daly said.

Meantime, the League's Pine Cone Festival Nov. 9 will have a red, white and blue theme, hopefully some pictures and a Betsy Ross doll at the entrance to the hall.

"It's fun this year," said Mrs. Smith. "And probably by next year, with the Bicentennial, everyone will be tired of it."

BOTH DESCENDANTS of Betsy Ross, Aileen Keleher of Kentfield and Pam Daly of San Rafael compare Pam's costume to the Betsy Ross doll. The sewing table beside them belonged to Betsy Ross herself and came down through the family to Aileen's mother, Mrs. William Keleher. Pam's mother, Mrs. Gerard Daly, made her costume for Halloween at Pam's request.

Dr. Rossman Is Surprised With A Retirement Party

By MOLLY MARIN

"It was a complete surprise. Dr. and Mrs. Colin Wong had invited us for dinner to show us their new house in Tiburon and to get my husband's advice on their garden. When we saw all the cars, we said, 'Someone in the neighborhood must be having a party,'" said Mrs. Frank E. Rossman of Sausalito.

But the party for 60 guests on Sunday was to honor her husband on his retirement after 40 years practicing dentistry in Mill Valley.

Sausalito residents for 44 years, the Rossmans live in "a tremendous three-story house" built in 1911, the year Margaret Rossman came to Sausalito.

Party guests included neighboring dentists, their wives and staffs, Dr. Rossman's contemporaries from University of California Dental School class of 1933 and his long-time friends and patients.

Among the guests were Dr. John Smith, past president and Dr. Ted Pett, president-elect of Marin County Dental Society, and Mrs. Marshall Rothstein, president and Mrs. James McCray, president-elect of Marin County Dental Society Auxiliary.

SUNDAY WAS a big day for surprise parties in Southern Marin, and some guests at the Wong's had earlier in the day attended the backyard picnic Shirley Burger hosted for her husband Gene's 40th birthday at their home in Mill Valley.

Gene Burger received humorous gifts, including a Playboy golf putter and a Bobby Riggs' tennis book. A collage poster of memories shared was made and given by the James McCrays.

Other guests were Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Rothstein, Messrs. and Mrs. Bill Eberhardt, Charles Villa, Taber Kopman and Fran Cormier, all of Mill Valley, and Messrs. and Mrs. Frank Worthington and Charles Boch, all of San Rafael.

Brushing Can Be Harmful To Your Hair

CHICAGO (UPI) — Girls who brush their hair 100 strokes daily to keep it healthy and shiny may be hurting rather than helping their crowning glory.

Experts, meeting at an American Medical Association conference in Chicago, warned that excessive brushing and combing actually damage hair.

The most degradative hair care process is combing. This is due to the force applied in repeated strokes.

"Brush and comb to groom, not to treat," said Dr. Norman Orentreich, of New York, who developed the hair transplant. "There is good evidence that it causes hair loss."

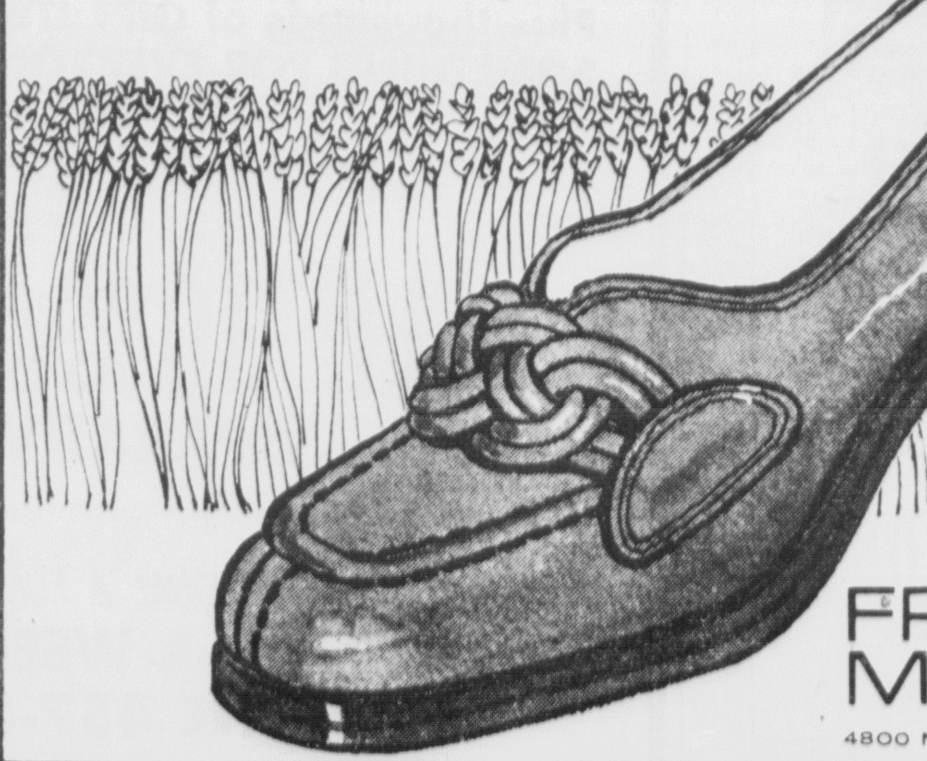

As for that healthy, vibrant, glowing hair referred to in commercials for hair tonics and other such potions, the doctors

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

At 16, Love Can Change Very Rapidly And That's Not Maturity

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I have a super-terrific problem that has to do with my marriage and what elderly straights would term my mistress.

I'm 16, my wife is 15. We had been going together for two and a half years, and we knew our parents wouldn't consent to marriage unless she got pregnant, so we took care of that.

We had plenty of arguments and found out I never really loved her. So about a month before the baby was born, she gave me an ultimatum — do things her way, or move out. I moved out.

Then I met Ruthie and learned what real love was. She is everything my wife isn't. For two months I was the happiest dude in town, and then I realized I'd lose my son if I didn't go back to my wife.

Now here I am living with a girl I don't love, and loving a girl I can't live with. Last week I went to see Ruthie and we decided I'd get out of school first, get a job for six months and then file for divorce. That makes me a responsible guy with rights to see my kid. Then I'll join the Air Force and Ruthie can live with me until we can get married. Until then I'll see her as often as I can.

Do you think I've made a mature decision? — OLD FOR MY AGE

DEAR OLD FOR MY AGE (YOU CERTAINLY ARE):

Your "mature" decision may be great for you and Ruthie, but how about your wife? Are you going to let her think everything's rosy, then (after she has seen you through school and finally settled into a job) just pop off to the Air Force with divorce papers under your arm?

Why don't you level with your wife, and let her decide where and when you should go. I'm sure she'd be happy to tell you! — SUE

DEAR OF MA:

I predict your affair with Ruthie will cool even faster than did your marriage. Why? Because at 16, a boy is more into adventures than permanence.

You win points with me for being willing to take on a father's responsibilities, but you lose them for disregarding your wife's feelings.

For heaven's sake, can't you be more honest than those elders who tolerate their mates and keep a little something extra on the side? If you're sure your marriage has failed, say so and get out. But don't come wailing to me six months from now, asking "How can I get my wonderful wife back again?" — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

Can you please tell me why the United States is in such a mess? Why all these sudden shortages, and high prices that jump every day? My folks can't buy their dream house because interest rates have gone sky-high. The dollar isn't worth peanuts abroad, and I don't even understand what devaluation means. The President talked about raising our income taxes to keep us from spending when my Dad says we can't afford to buy anything anyway, even steaks for dinner.

Did ending the Vietnam War cause all this? How can I learn what really happened so maybe my generation won't let it happen again? — DISTURBED AND CONFUSED

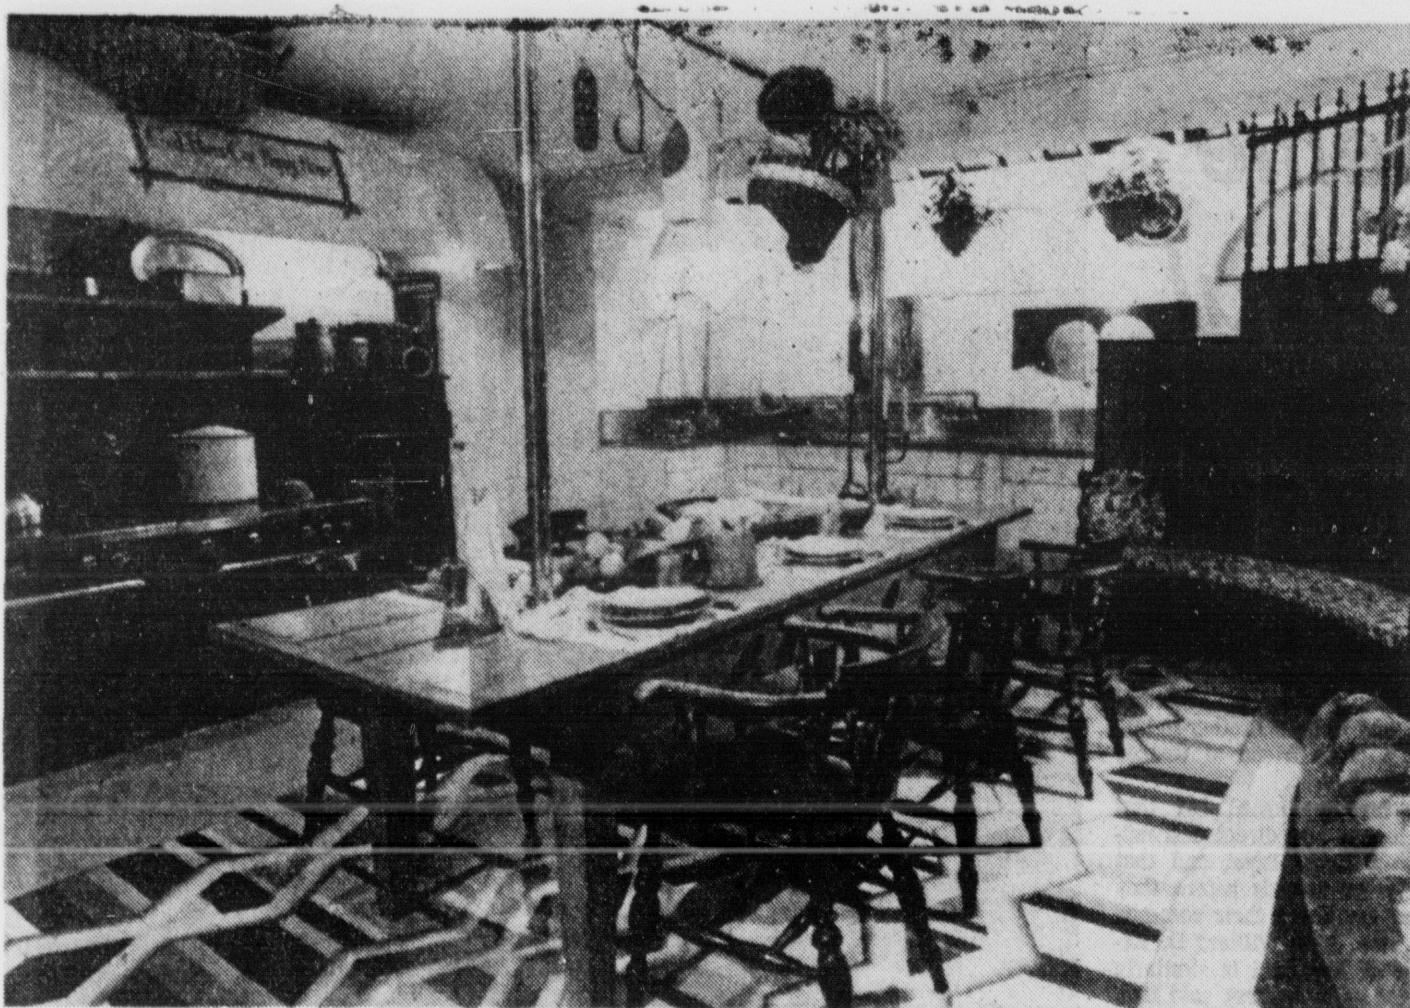

DEAR D AND C:

I wish we could answer your questions, but we doubt that Solomon himself would even come close.

If you'd improve the world, however, concentrate on political science, economics, business administration and ethics in college. What this country needs is more people who are aware and fewer of those who shrug, "Let George (Jack, Lyndon, Richard, etc., etc.) do it."

We leave you with this quote: The dollar is as inconsistent as politicians: When it floats, it sinks. — HELEN AND SUE Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

WOOD FLOORS painted in bright designs are catching on as a do-it-yourself trend. Here is a hand-painted design by David Barrett on the wooden kitchen floor of a Manhattan brownstone.

Score One For The Painted Floor

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — The case for the painted floor underfoot grows daily.

Wood floors painted in bright colors — such as orange, yellow gold, and blue — are a big do-it-yourself trend in the New York area.

Manhattan floor specialist William Erbe says that demands for vibrant green and brilliant red painted finishes are not unusual.

Decorated painted floors become real "art forms" when painted in stunning patterns. These can be applied freehand or with stencils. The designs can be great pretenders made to simulate other materials, such as marble tiles. Or they can be interesting semi-abstracts or graphics.

Are painted floors a practical, as well as decorative, idea that will be around for awhile?

Painted floors are obviously not for rented apartments, unless you plan a long tenancy and are willing to restore floors to their original finish when you move. They also are not for nonsoundproofed buildings, where carpets are required to muffle noise between apartments.

Costs can range from a do-it-yourself job at less than $25 (which is a fraction of the price of carpeting a room) to the $1,500 to $2,000 you would pay an interior-design firm to custom-design a floor for you and have a floor artist apply the design.

Several design firms chose decorative painted floors to underpin their rooms in the same New York decorator's show-house, a Park Avenue brownstone mansion built in the 1880's.

Cronin-Stempler Designs showed a bed-sitting room with a chevron pattern painted on the floor in shades of tan, brown, and white.

Another painted-floor fantasy was applied in the huge kitchen of the old mansion by designer David Barrett. It warmed up the rather cavernous old-fashioned room by giving it an English keeping-room appearance.

"People who are buying and renovating or restoring old houses are particularly intrigued with painted floor finishes," says Joan Gibson, stylist for a paint company.

In one such old house, Miss Gibson painted the random-width floor boards of an upstairs sewing room in alternating light yellow, green, and dark forest green. In the basement playroom of another old house, she designed for the floor a huge smiling sunflower in shades of yellow, orange, and green.

If you want to give yourself a durable painted floor, uneven boards — those that are dented, or raised by moisture — should be professionally sanded to attain a uniform evenness. Small rough or worn spots can be sanded smooth by hand. Any loose boards should be nailed down and all holes filled with wood putty. The floor should be washed and allowed to dry thoroughly.

Then apply two coats of floor enamel, either oil-base or latex (a gallon covers 350 square feet of space). Now varnish. Depending on the traffic a room gets, a family could expect from two to five years wear from such a painted floor before refurbishing becomes necessary.

Many Women Breadwinners

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the 45.8 million husband-wife families in March, 1972, 1.3 million husbands who were in the labor force were unemployed and 6.6 million husbands were not in the labor force, the U.S. Department of Labor reports.

Some 607,000 wives of unemployed husbands and nearly 1.5 million wives whose husbands were not in the labor force were working or seeking work. Many of these women were the sole support of their families.

Nutrition, Exercise Class For Teen-Agers

A nutrition and exercise class for boys and girls under 18 will be held for six weekly sessions, beginning Nov. 7 at the Ross Valley Clinic in Greenbrae.

Classes will be conducted Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. by physical therapist Lorraine Slocum and dietitian Pamela Gilroy.

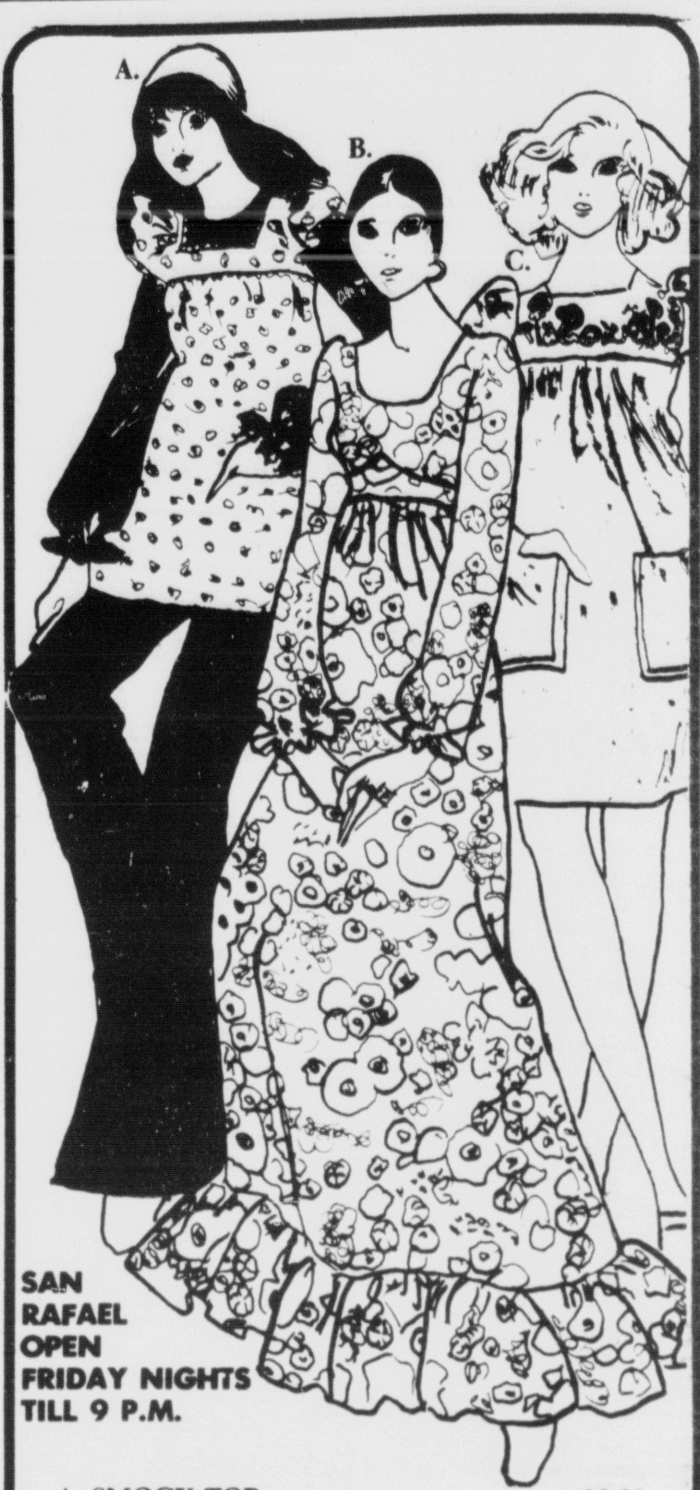

The classes will cover diet discussion, basic balanced eating, overweight, underweight, vegetarian diets and snack foods and the second half-hour will be used for active exercise.

The class is not only for those who are overweight, but also for those who wish to know more about the relationship of food, exercise, health and vitality, according to the instructors.

A nominal fee will be charged for the classes.

How To Communicate With The Old Folks

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This column is written for children.)

Most older folks, especially grandparents and great-aunts and uncles, have hobbies. They like to collect rocks or make a scrapbook of pictures or write letters to pen pals, collect stamps, exchange recipes or maybe just listen to special types of music.

You could show your love for the older people you know by helping them with their hobbies. Sometimes it seems like a grandfather isn't easy to talk to. But suppose he collects leaves and mounts them in a special book. You could scout around your neighborhood and find some really neat leaves (not torn or broken) and take them when you make your next visit.

If your grandfather already has samples of the leaves you've brought, that's okay. You can ask him about those you did bring and find out what's special and different about each one.

Your great aunt may be a longtime recipe collector. Well, next time you eat out at a friend's house and you eat a really good cookie, ask the hostess for the recipe and send it along to your great-aunt.

AND IF you're on the lookout for a good cookie recipe yourself, you might write your great aunt and ask her to send you one that you're sure you can bake without too much trouble.

There's a great uncle of a friend of mine who loves learning things about the astronauts. Well, maybe you'll pick up something about these space adventurers in school which your uncle hasn't heard about. You could write it up or next time your parents call him, ask to have the phone for a minute to share with him what you've learned.

You'll be surprised if you try this with some of the older people you visit from time to time — you'll find that they aren't nearly as shy as you thought they were. Also, it will cut down on the number of times you're asked by an older adult, "Well, young man (or young lady), what have you been doing with yourself lately?"

That's always an impossible question to answer when it's asked by someone you see only once in a while. By starting right out and sharing something with an older friend or relative, you make it easier for both of you to understand and love each other.

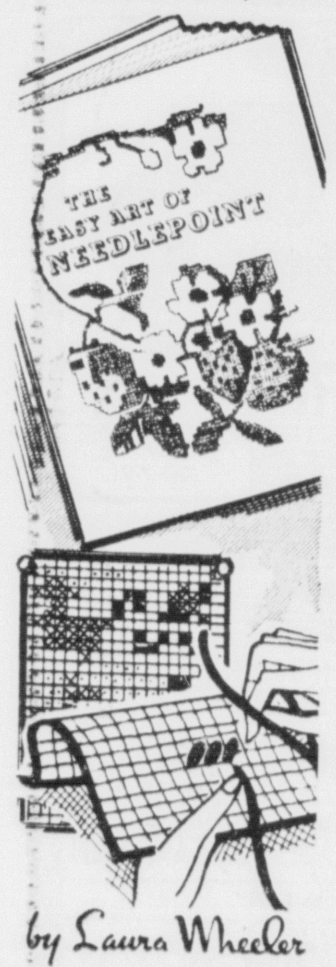

Suppose your grandmother likes walking in the woods and identifying mushrooms and ferns. And just supposing mushrooms and ferns aren't among your hobbies. Well, you certainly can go along with grandmother and learn something new. You don't have to make it your hobby. But it surely wouldn't hurt to learn something you don't already know.

MOST OLDER people don't like to think of little children spending money to give them gifts. They really would prefer that you make something for them. This could be a picture you've drawn or the copy of a song you've written or something you've made in crafts.

What fun it would be to surprise grandparents with something in their own hobby. One thing you could do is to collect all the newspaper and magazine stories you can find on a subject which interests one or both grandparents. After you have collected them, put them in a scrapbook and give them as a Christmas surprise. You'll be pleased because they will be pleased.

Role Of African Women Is Varied

NEW YORK (UPI) — Custom in the newer African nations varies not only from country to country but from village to village within that country. Some African women are completely subordinate to their husbands. Others head up and run their own businesses.

Too Much Brushing Can Harm Your Hair

said that there is no such thing. "The plain, unadorned — bald, if you will — truth is that hair is as dead as any fibrous cord, even when it is being manufactured within the follicle," said Dr. William Montagna of Beaverton, Ore.

Since hair is dead, the experts agreed, it cannot be "fed" with "protein or lemons or anything else."

The hair experts, however, said there was no truth to the tale that frequent shampooing of hair produced baldness. They suggested that hair should be washed only as frequently as necessary and that more frequent washings could break hairs.

Persons with very oily hair could shampoo daily, they said, while persons with dry hair would do well to go four to seven days without shampooing, if there is no unusual exposure to dirt.

The experts also agree that it is impossible to identify people through examination of hair.

"The size, color, distribution and wear of hair cuticles differs so widely for each person that the practice of using hair for individual identification by those in forensic medicine has gradually become obsolete and outmoded," Montagna said.

"One wonders how many innocent human beings were convicted of crimes they never committed on such less-than-circumstantial evidence," he said.

Science, the conference concluded, cannot identify people from hair, despite what detective stories say.

A TAME MOMENT — Petruchio (Marc Singer) attempts to convince his rebellious Katherina (Freda Olster) that she might as well resign her self to his domination in a scene from the American Conservatory Theater production of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," currently in repertory at the Geary Theater, San Francisco.

'Peter Grimes' Due In San Francisco

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The San Francisco Opera will present its first ever "Peter Grimes" by Benjamin Britten on Saturday night at the Opera House.

Written in the 1940s, the opera is a saga of the sea. In the title role of Peter Grimes will be tenor Jess Thomas, who also sang in the company's "Tannhauser." Also in the cast will be British soprano Ava June, who is making her American debut, Sir Geraint Evans, who is also directing the production, and Donna Petersen.

"Peter Grimes" will be presented again Tuesday night, as well as Nov. 4 and Nov. 9.

The company will present its final production of Mussorgsky's "Boris Gudunov" on Sunday afternoon.

MUSIC

The Oakland Symphony will begin its second subscription series Tuesday night at the Paramount Theater of the Arts. Maestro Harold Farberman has selected Paganini's Concerto No. 2 in B Minor as the major work of the evening with violinist Ruggiero Ricci as soloist.

Other works will be Charles Ives "The Celestial Country," a cantata for orchestra, chorus and soloists, and Richard Strauss "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks." The concert will be repeated Wednesday and Thursday nights.

DANCE

The Krasnyarsk Dance Company of Siberia will make its first Bay Area appearance this weekend with performances tomorrow and Saturday nights, plus a matinee Saturday, at the Masonic Auditorium. The group will also perform Sunday afternoon at Flint Auditorium on the DeAnza College in Cupertino, and that night at the Paramount Theater of the Arts in Oakland.

Other events: Geary Theater — "Taming of the Shrew," tomorrow, Tuesday, 8:30 p.m.; "Hot 1 Baltimore,"

By ADA GARFINKEL

There is simplicity and elegance in the small faculty exhibit in Dominican College's Alemany Library and a lively experimental tone pervades in the students' display in San Marco Gallery.

In the faculty show, Masatoyo Kishi's hollow fiberglass torsos and heads are tantalizingly arresting. Their translucent sheen and asymmetrical balance lend a strange vitality, while "Torso Landscape" combines figure and landscape contours interchangeably.

Weaving instructor Ida Grae's "Becoming" is a 15-foot-long space divider-fetish object which Mrs. Grae envisions as an embodiment of human hopes. Of linen, chenille, skeins of yarn, and pierced driftwood, it assumes a quasi-human form.

Magda Chambers combines monochrome and Indian ink brushwork in her graphics, and multiple-exposed color photos by Sister Adele combine natural and man-made objects and feature fluid light patterns.

Quentin Neal's miniature sculptural jewelry and that of his students is housed in the library's exhibition case. Also sharing this space is a handsome assembly of John Chamber's functional ceramic ware.

San Marco Gallery's show of student work fairly bristles with the excitement of discovery. And some of the students are also concerned with personal values.

Margaret Joost, for example, in her photo-silkscreen "Searching" includes a battered hull inscribed "Diogenes." Is she, too, searching for an honest person?

And Janet Clark's "Inner Knowledge of Tantara" expresses the "unity and completeness of one's self and the visible world" in a free-hanging, sized by unmarked canvas lightly puffed and shadowed by a panel lined with cotton batting.

Diane Lafrenz' boldly assertive soft sculpture assembles leather hides, torn canvas, feathers, thongs, slender, horizontal branches and daubs of paint to recreate a nostalgia for the old West.

Sculptural weavings and panels also tend toward naturalistic, organic, and ethnic metaphors in Tammy Tanaka's "Land Beneath the Heavens," in Stephani Mohorovich's hanging pod form, and in Terry Borek's American Indian motif.

There is a noticeable resurgence of interest in painting. Lynne Phleger creates subtle staccato effects by slightly overlapping narrow strips of white rice paper as an overall grid on a black-painted canvas in "Collage No. 7." The characteristic threads in the rice paper soften the formal regularity.

In a three-part painting-con-

WESTERN FETISH — Diane Lafrenz's hanging sculpture, recalling the pioneer days of the West, assembles rawhides, leather, torn cloth, bright dabs of paint and feathers lashed to slender branches with leather thongs. Suspended from the ceiling of San Marco Gallery on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael where it is included in the current student show, part of it trails onto a painted cardboard "mosaic" depicting hills and water.

struction, Arne Svenson hangs a stiffened swag of pale blue on the wall, while a tightly twisted mid-section and an expanding flower form in pastel colors rest on a series of low, white bases.

Ann Marie Taheny's painting on glass is a medley of rainbow colors and bubbly textures produced by an alchemy of heat and plastic foam materials. Eleanor Timmer in her "Ensohmeda," combines mat and gloss effectively in brushed and sprayed low-keyed hues.

Rounding out the exhibit are Gretchen Mentzer's delicate conte drawing, Tom Basile's Raku ceramics, Deborah Lawlor's sensitive photographs, pop-art silkscreen prints by Yolanda Sanchez and Karyn Combs. Bada Kim's linoleum print suggestive of sea life, and Arne Svenson's earth-piece, "Rumpelstiltskin Awakens."

Both exhibits will continue through Nov. 17 and may be viewed Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Not Many Left As Spectators

CAMPTONVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — The first jury trial in 35 years in this tiny sawmill town attracted less than a dozen spectators.

"When you have a 12-member jury," said Judge Acton M. Cleveland, "there's not many left in town to be spectators."

In the trial last week, Larry Trihub, 26, was fined $65 for carrying a loaded rifle in a moving vehicle on a public road.

Shutdown Of School Rejected

Parents at a San Anselmo School District community meeting last night unanimously rejected a proposal to close Sleepy Hollow School, Supt. Frank R. Elliott said today.

Closing the school is among a number of alternatives facing the district in the wake of declining enrollment, Elliott said.

He said about 60 parents attended last night's meeting, one of a series of forums sponsored by the district master plan survey committee, a group charged with soliciting community opinion on school programs and facilities.

Parents claimed the school was one of the best in the district, had a strong educational program, and was not plagued by noise or traffic problems.

The next community forum on future school sites and possible school closings is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 in Red Hill School.

Three Hurt In Crash In Novato

A Sonoma mother and her two children were injured last night in a two-car collision in which both autos rolled into a drainage ditch along Highway 101 in Central Novato, according to the California Highway Patrol.

All three were listed in satisfactory condition today at Novato General Hospital. Elizabeth R. Cole, 24, of 110 Fellers Avenue, was being treated for a cut on the head and possible internal injuries. Her daughter, Jamie Cole, 2, had a cut on the forehead and possible internal injuries. A son, John Gates, 5, was under observation for possible internal injuries.

Highway patrolmen said Mrs. Cole and a second driver, Kathleen Elaine Robb, 22, of Vallejo, were traveling in separate northbound lanes at about midnight on Highway 101 just south of the Ignacio Boulevard turn-off.

According to patrolmen, Miss Robb changed lanes and hit the Cole car, which was in front of her. Both autos turned over into a ditch.

Mrs. Cole and the children were thrown from the car and found lying on the side of the road.

Miss Robb apparently was not injured officers said.

One Case Is Dropped; Time On Stolen Property

John David Anderson of San Rafael has won one case and lost another in Marin Superior Court.

A heroin possession charge against the 48-year-old Anderson was dismissed yesterday when Judge E. Warren McGuire ruled he had been denied his constitutional right to a speedy trial.

On the minus side, Anderson was convicted of possessing stolen property last week in the court of visiting Judge Anthony Brazil of Monterey County.

Today Brazil sentenced Anderson to six months in jail, to run concurrent with a one-year term he is serving for violating his probation in an earlier case.

In dismissing the drug count, McGuire ruled Anderson's defense chances were crippled by a four-month delay between his arrest last Nov. 15 and filing of the charge March 20.

Deputy Public Defender Larry K. Heon said the elapsed time made it impossible to find a witness crucial to proving Anderson's claim a wallet containing heroin was not his.

In the other case, the jury convicted Anderson of having in his possession property taken from the Thomas G. Torres apartment in Santa Venetia.

San Rafael police said they spotted him unloading the goods from a car Aug. 5. The jury acquitted Anderson on a second charge of actually burglarizing Torres's apartment.

Lower Gasoline Supplies Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The president of Union Oil Co. said yesterday government requirements for lead-free gasoline will lower the nation's gasoline supplies next year.

Fred L. Hartley said production of gasoline without lead requires more crude oil than leaded gasoline and anti-lead requirements "will be a contributing factor in 1974's gasoline shortage."

Hartley addressed the National Oil Jobbers Council meeting here.

He said the nation's energy crisis "will continue to worsen and may last indefinitely" unless several steps were taken.

Medvic Says Board Needs Student View

By BILL ROBERTS

(Sixth of a series of stories on the eight candidates for a vacancy on the Marin Community College District Board) Edward A. Medvic, 19-year-old student at the University of California, Berkeley, is seeking election to the Marin Community College District board to give it a representative from the college community.

He is one of eight candidates for a vacancy created when Elizabeth M. Deedy resigned her seat to accept a state position. The vacancy will be filled in the Nov. 6 election.

Medvic, a sophomore at Berkeley, is a graduate of St. Joseph's High School in Mountain View and attended St. Raphael's Parochial School in San Rafael.

He said the board is presently made up entirely of representatives from the outside community and should have a representative from within the college system.

Although not naming specific courses to be added, Medvic thinks the district should add more vocational courses to bring a balance between vocational and academic programs.

He supports review of the Indian Valley Colleges' building program, particularly in view of the college's decreasing rate of enrollment, but favors bond issues for financing future building.

Medvic thinks students have an adequate voice to influence board policy through existing groups and favors committees and a faculty senate which deal directly with the board.

He called the present adult education program "excellent" and favors its expansion.

Medvic would like to see a president at both the Novato and Kentfield campuses and addition of a superintendent to watch district needs. He supports gradual expansion of present spending programs, based on a priority list to be established by the board.

Although declining comment on which present programs need improvement, Medvic indicated that ethnic study courses should be combined in one department to prevent them from being "watered down" by being scattered among other academic disciplines.

Medvic is not married and lives at 2429 Fifth Avenue in San Rafael. He commutes daily to Berkeley.

Halloween Story Hour Scheduled

A special Halloween story hour for children age 5 and older will be held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Branch of Marin County Library, with witches, goblins and other weird beings doing the story telling.

Children may wear their Halloween costumes to the story hour.

Top Priority Assigned To Park Land

Improvements to park land around the Veterans Memorial Building received top priority for action last night from the Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission.

Commission chairman Lee Gray said members agreed to focus their efforts there since the building is the south entrance to the city.

Plans call for installation of sprinklers, landscaping, barbecue pits and picnic tables at the park's south end. Work on the north end would include a new volleyball court.

Other projects receiving high priorities include development of a new park on Myrtle Avenue and a greenbelt on East Cotati Avenue adjacent to the neighborhood park planned by Rohnert Park, and acquisition of a park site on the west side of Highway 101.

Building Approved At Bird Sanctuary

The Tiburon Board of Design Review and Planning Commission last night approved plans for a custodian's residence and educational building at the Audubon Society's Richardson Bay Bird Sanctuary.

The building at 378 Greenwood Beach Road will replace an older barracks-like structure which will be torn down.

Big Pay Hike Proposed For Bridge District Secretary

A 28 per cent hike for the Golden Gate Bridge District's secretary was recommended unanimously today by a committee of district directors.

Peter D. Clainos, who has held the post for three years, has been making $18,780 a year. The increase, effective on Nov. 1 if ratified by the full board tomorrow, will push his annual pay to $24,000.

The district secretary and his staff are responsible for minutes and related paperwork for board and committee meetings.

The rules, policy and industrial relations committee voted for the increase after a 10-minute session behind closed doors "to review officers' salaries." The state's anti-secret meeting law, the Ralph M. Brown Act, does not include any provision for such a closed meeting.

The increase, in sharp contrast to the federal wage guideline of 5.5 per cent maximum in salary hikes, is not subject to government approval, according to the district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins. The guidelines do not apply to public agencies, he said.

The committee also voted to Hearing Is Set In Burglary Case

A preliminary hearing for Melvin Roy Lundgren, 28, of Oakland, will be Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Lundgren pleaded innocent yesterday to burglarizing a Sausalito residence last month.

College Plan For Building Not Adopted

Marin Community College District trustees met for four and a half hours last night but failed to adopt the district's 10-year construction plan.

Earlene Jones, district publicist, said the board split over space allocations to departments in the remodeling of three College of Marin buildings, the Old library, industrial arts and engineering buildings.

The board adjourned to 10 p.m. today in room 160 of the office center at the college to continue discussion of the plan. Deadline for submission to the chancellor of state community colleges is Nov. 1.

The board will also consider possible uses of surplus property at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Single Mothers Discussion Set

A discussion of the problems of single mothers will be held on Nov. 8 at the Novato Human Needs Center, according to Henry B. Mattimore, director.

Jini Lama, director of Single Mothers of Marin, will lead the discussion.

Head Man Sees Hamilton Bustling By Next Summer

By JEFF GREER

Hamilton Air Force Base's top-ranking officer predicted yesterday that the base will become a bustling installation by next summer.

Maj. Gen. Rollin B. Moore, commander of the Western Region Air Force Reserve, stressed that his headquarters base "isn't closing but is under conversion" to new uses.

He said last-minute questions had caused the House Armed Forces Committee to miss its expected deadline this week for deciding the exact boundaries of the 477 acres of the base proposed to be declared excess.

He spoke at a luncheon in the officers club, sponsored by the Novato chapter of the Air Force Association and attended by about 70 persons, including chamber of commerce members and the city-county committee formed to study use of the base's surplus land.

The Air Force reserves will take over about one-third of the base and operate the flight line, hangars and major air base facilities for training weekend warriors and summer camp units, Moore said. The reserves also will keep open the officers' club and noncommissioned officers club.

The Navy, by July 1, will be in full command of base housing, parceling it out among Navy, Air Force and Army families attached to military units throughout the Bay Area, according to the general. The Navy also is expected to reopen the commissary next month after rehiring much of the recently discharged staff, he added.

The base hospital is expected to be taken over by an Army reserve unit, and probably won't provide medical service to military families, he said. Moore said he had been expecting word from the House committee since Tuesday on exact outlines of the 477 acres expected to be declared surplus. But Rep. William S. Mailiard, R-Sixth District, has raised some administrative questions that delayed committee action, the general said.

The base "is at a low point right now," Moore said, down to a payroll of about 1,500 persons, including reservists, civilian and off-base reservists. He said the number would increase by July 1.

Gen. William Hathaway, commander of the 452nd Tactical Air Wing, will become base commander succeeding interim commander Col. John Riley, Moore announced.

"There'll have to be a determination of who gets the 477 acres" if they are declared surplus, Moore said. "It's my understanding it will not go the ways that have been publicized... for a rehabilitation center" and the like, he added.

Moore made no mention of worries expressed privately by other Air Force officers — that all the base recreation facilities lie in the proposed surplus area — and thus could leave the reservists without on-base recreation.

He said guards at the main gate would continue to exclude the public except for invited visits or base business. He added he didn't know exactly where new security perimeters will be drawn if part of the land is declared excess.

He laughingly reported that a group of teen-agers recently talked their way onto the base in the belief it was no longer in military use, then quarreled with military men over who could use the tennis courts.

Remaining Renters At Hilarita Project Win Relocation Delay

Residents of the deteriorating Hilarita Housing Project in Tiburon last night beat back another attempt by the staff of the Marin County Housing Authority to move them out.

Appearing before the housing authority board, which met at Reed School in Tiburon, representatives of the remaining 24 families at Hilarita won board support to remain — for the time being at least.

Board members said they would not make a final decision until a building inspector from the City of Tiburon gives his opinion on the safety of the vintage buildings — built during World War II — and until the authority staff determines repair costs.

Another meeting to consider the building inspector's report and the repair costs was tentatively set Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Reed School.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the housing authority, last night repeated his earlier recommendation that residents be moved out because of hazardous gas leaks and electrical wiring.

Also he said the housing authority faces large costs, estimated at $35,000, to repair old water and sewage lines serving the project.

His suggestion that the families be temporarily relocated in public housing in Marin City or possibly at surplus housing at Hamilton Air Force Base brought groans from the 50-member audience.

The 24 concerned families have first priority in the 102-unit new Hilarita apartments planned by the Tiburon Ecumenical Association.

On other matters last night, the board received a verbal report from Edwin G. Weed, president of the ecumenical association on its development plans.

Rents for the low and moderate-income project will range from $159 per month for a one-bedroom apartment to $229 for a four-bedroom unit, he said.

He asked that an expired option to purchase land from the housing authority be renewed so that the Department of Housing and Urban Development can process a low interest federal building loan.

Board members declined, however, to renew the option until details on rental rates for 20 of the new units to be leased to the housing authority are worked out. That matter is expected to be discussed again at Tuesday's meeting.

Secret Service Boss To Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — James J. Rowley, whose Secret Service career spanned 35 years under six presidents, is retiring as director of the agency.

Rowley has been Secret Service director for 12 years, including the time of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Teachers Ask Impeachment

A Marin teachers group has called for impeachment proceedings to begin against President Richard M. Nixon.

The Tamalpais Federation of Teachers, local 1985, passed a resolution Tuesday demanding immediate initiation of impeachment proceedings by the House of Representatives.

The resolution stated that Nixon had "broken his pledge to the American people" by firing Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Tahoe Agency Turns Down Casino Plans

INCLINE VILLAGE (AP) — The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency today voted down plans for a $40 million, 10-story casino on the edge of Lake Tahoe.

On a 7-1 vote, TRPA members refused to approve plans for the club proposed for the Stateline area by developer Ted Jennings.

TRPA member Charles McNeely, a Douglas County commissioner, cast the lone aye vote for the plan, arguing that added motel facilities would ease traffic problems at the mountain lake resort area.

But others backed the motion by Peter Hannaford, California Gov. Ronald Reagan's at-large appointee, to deny the plan.

Hannaford cited a TRPA staff recommendation that the present highway system in the area is already inadequate for current traffic demands and could not accommodate added autos that would be generated by the club.

Noel Manoukian, attorney for the casino developers, argued the proposal should get equal treatment along with other clubs who have recently won approval for additions to their facilities.

Opening lead - A Q

A SOLID REASON
It's hard to see the reason for refusing the first trick, but the reason is there. The hold-up play enables you to ruff a spade in dummy, strange as that may seem.

After you have refused the first trick, West leads another spade, and you take dummy's ace. Your next step is to draw two rounds of trumps with the ace and king. You hope that the queen will drop, but you are not surprised when this hope fails.

RUN DIAMONDS
Now you begin to run the diamonds. On the fourth diamond, you discard dummy's last spade. You aren't worried if West ruffs at any stage of this play. That will leave dummy with a perfectly good trump.

If West refuses to ruff, you can now lead your own last spade and ruff it in dummy. You can afford to give up one trump and one club in addition to the spade lost at the first trick.

DON'T USE ACE
This little plan would not work if you won the first trick with the ace of spades. You could go ahead with two trumps and four diamonds, but West would refuse to ruff. You could discard a spade from dummy, but dummy would still have a spade.

Whenever you led spades, West would win and would draw dummy's last trump with the queen. This would prevent

Rough Forest Fire Season

PLACERVILLE (UPI) — El-dorado National Forest suffered its roughest fire season this summer in 14 years, with 99 blazes charring a total of 10,799 acres, Forest Supervisor Joe Harn reported yesterday.

Harn also said that recent storms have yielded enough precipitation to close the fire season that was declared in effect in May.

Of the total acreage destroyed, 9,990 acres occurred in the Pilliken fire in late August, Harn said.

Of the 99 fires, 61 were caused by lightning, 11 by careless smokers, 11 by unattended campfires, three by arson and the rest from miscellaneous causes and from equipment use.

Dates and committee structure for San Rafael's centennial observance next year may be set at a public meeting next Thursday at 3 p.m. in the San Rafael City Schools board room, Third and E streets.

Members of the steering committee, appointed at the initial meeting on the centennial earlier this month, decided yesterday to recommend that Jean Kelly be named program chairman for the observance.

Names were suggested for general chairman and finance chairman, and Rex T. Silvernale, steering committee chairman, was authorized to find out if those suggested are willing to serve. If they are, the names will be presented at next Thursday's meeting.

The steering committee, meeting at Bank of Marin headquarters, decided to recommend that the major week-long observance be late next May. This time was chosen to get maximum participation from the city's schools.

Numerous possible events, during and leading up to the main celebration, which will be climaxed by a large parade, were discussed.

City Councilman John A. Miskimen, coordinator between the city government and the steering committee, stressed that next Thursday's meeting will be open to all, with a particular invitation to any organizations willing to participate in the observance.

Museum Opens
Bickel Exhibit

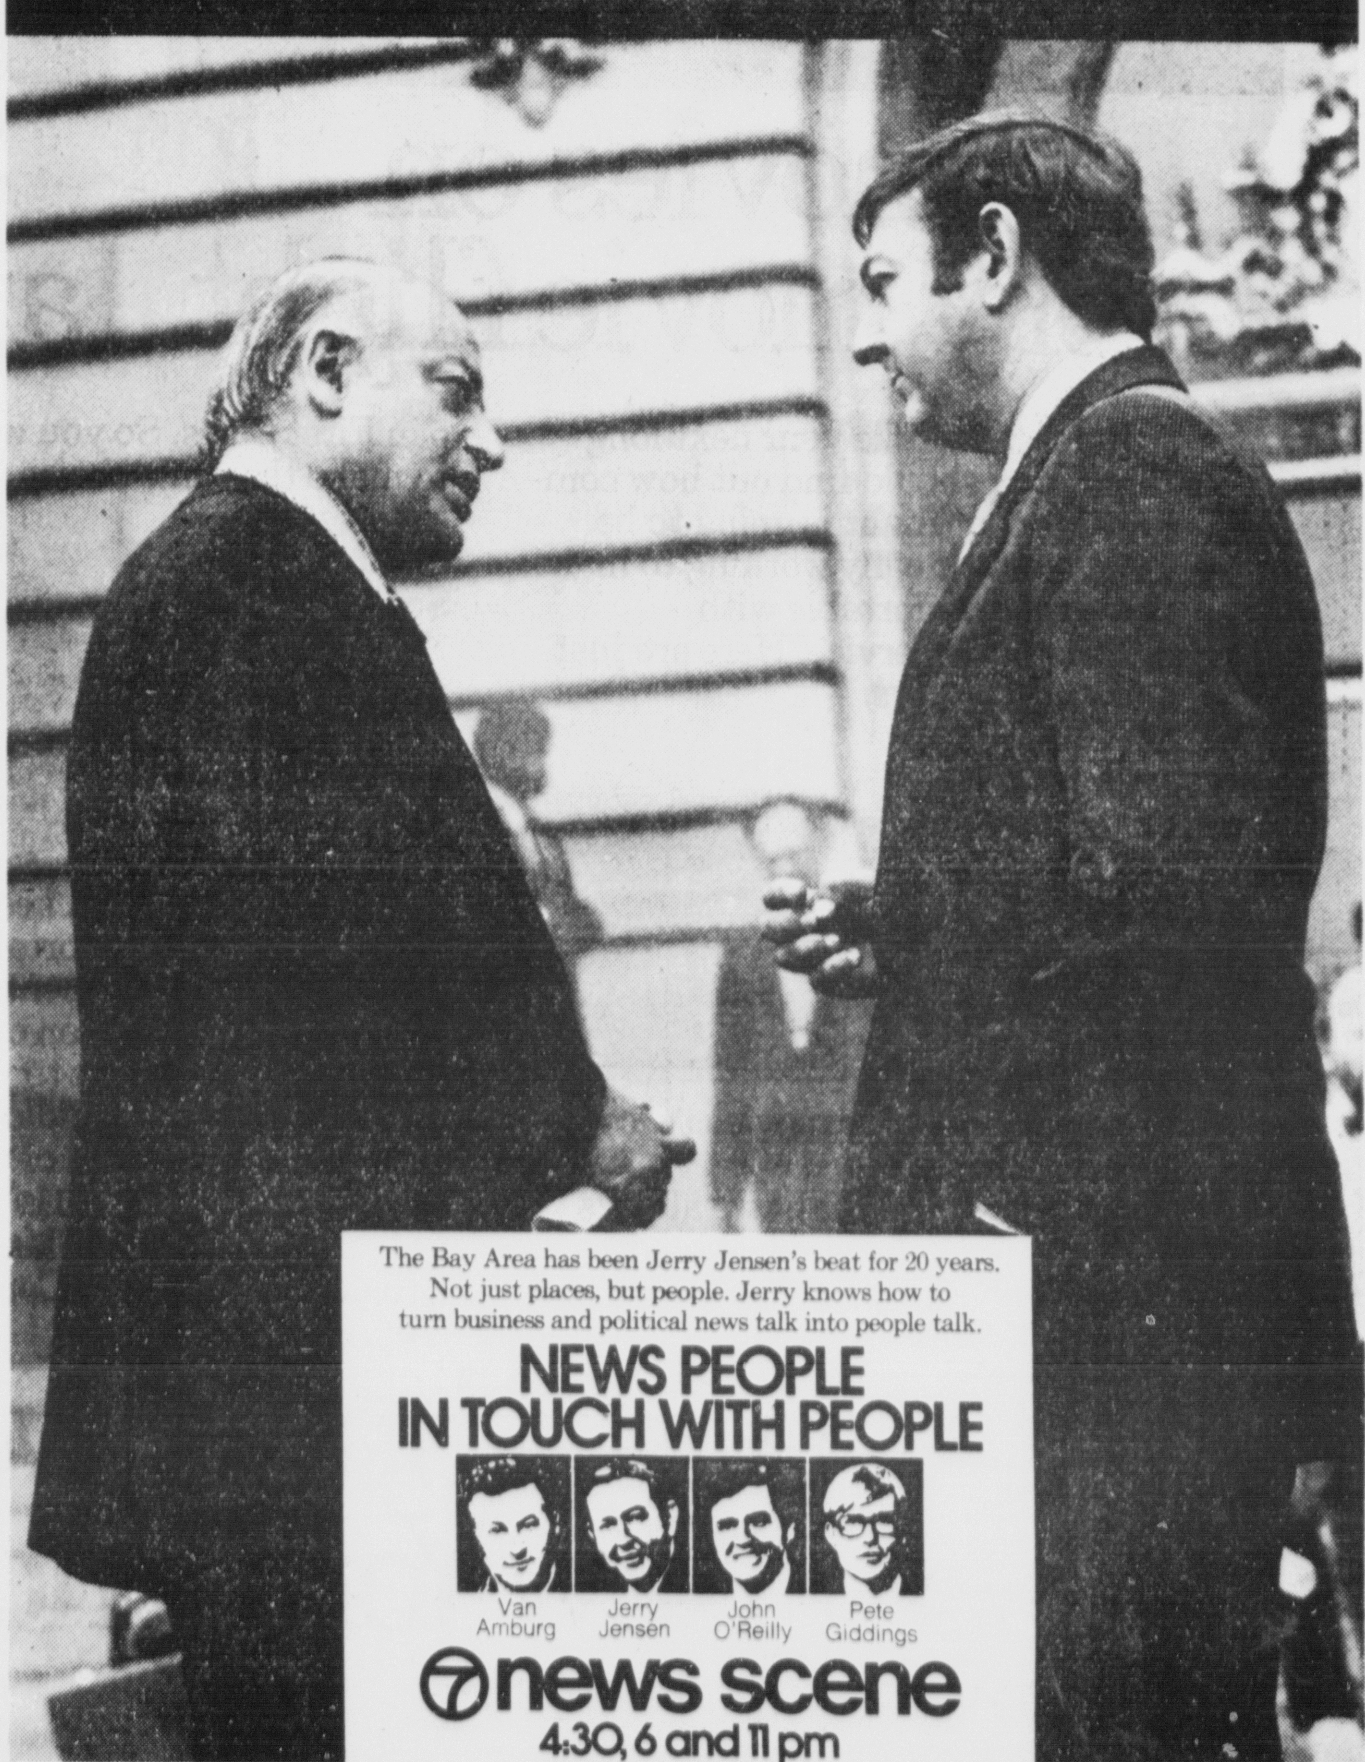

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — The Ringling Museum of Art last night opened an art exhibit featuring the collections of the man who devoted 20 years to developing the museum.

The collections of the late Karl Bickel, former president of the United Press Association, were opened for display at the Ringling Museum of Art.

Bickel, an active participant in the work of the museum, played an important part in acquiring Ringling's 18th century Asolo Theater and in the creation and construction of other physical features that are now top cultural attractions.

His collections include the many art works he donated to the museum as well as photographs and memorabilia that chronicle his life.

State Asked To Show
Harm At Bodega Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Court of Appeal has asked the state to show what environmental harm would be caused by a proposed 1,600 home subdivision at Bodega Bay.

The appeals court yesterday asked the state Attorney General's office to present its arguments by Nov. 2 in a months-long struggle between Transcentury Corp. and a regional coastal commission seeking to block the development.

The court continued its freeze on further building of the condominium subdivision on 843 acres in Bodega Harbor, where only a few model homes have been erected so far.

The court also ordered Transcentury to explain how much erosion control work has been completed and is planned.

The struggle between the developer and the North Coast Regional conservation Commission reached the Appeals court last week after the agency asked the case be removed from the Superior Court in Sonoma County. The commission said it was protesting a lower court ruling favorable to Transcentury.

The regional commission last Spring blocked Transcentury's plans for the development on environmental grounds, but Transcentury has appealed to the state and through the courts that its project was underway before the Coastal Commission was created by voter initiative.

Won't Be Near Dollar A Pound

MODESTO (UPI) — Henry Turner, manager of the California Turkey Federation, now says prices for Thanksgiving Day turkeys will be considerably under $1 a pound.

Turner predicted last week turkey prices would be around $1 a pound.

"It's kind of early to tell exactly what kind of prices we'll have for the holiday, but right now I'd have to say it won't come near $1 a pound," Turner said yesterday.

Ben Rogan, a senior marketing specialist with the Federal-State Market News Service in Fresno, said the live turkey market is "unstable" because of a possible influx of out-of-state birds.

Rogan said current live bird prices for young turkey hens are 47-48 cents a pound and 44-47 cents for young toms — up three to seven cents over last year.

Petaluma Board Decides On Single Large Library

A plan to build two branch libraries was dropped yesterday as the Petaluma Library Board decided to push for construction of a large central library.

In a meeting with library consultant Bertha D. Hellum of Walnut Creek, board members directed that plans be prepared for a library large enough to serve Petaluma's population for 10 years.

The board already has $280,000 from Petaluma's federal revenue sharing funds and another $272,000 from Sonoma County funds for the facility.

Board members hope the remaining construction funds will be approved by voters in a March bond election.

Although the board had long considered seeking money to build two branch libraries, the idea was dismissed because operation costs would be too high.

A survey of regular library users also indicated most favor one large facility rather than two small ones.

Mrs. Hellum said she and her associates have 11 potential library sites under study. She said land close to population centers and shopping areas will be favored.

Board members told Mrs. Hellum to seek a site large enough for a library to serve the city in the year 2000.

Mrs. Hellum said a final building proposal will be presented to the board in late November to determine how much to seek.

Torso Of Body Is Discovered

The torso of an unidentified man was found yesterday washed up on the rocks near Stinson Beach.

Robert G. Williams of San Rafael discovered the badly decomposed torso at 10:45 a.m. at Red Rock Beach 350 feet from Shoreline Highway, one mile south of Stinson Beach.

The remains of the man, whose age has not been determined, was taken to Daphne's Funerals in Corte Madera for autopsy.

Jail Term Given In Drug Case

A Miami man caught with a bag of heroin at a Corte Madera motel was ordered yesterday to spend three months in jail for possessing the drug.

Andrew Jay Winkelman, 29, was sentenced to a year in jail, but Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best suspended nine months of the sentence and placed Winkelman on three years probation. The judge also fined him $2,500.

Winkelman, former vice president of a Florida clothing manufacturing firm, immediately appealed the case to the state court of appeals.

Marin sheriff's deputies arrested him at the Edgewater Inn April 23 for allegedly renting a car and failing to return it.

In Winkelman's pocket was found a plastic bag of heroin, and a vial with methadone was located in the room, according to his probation report.

A's Williams Case Likely To Be Settled In Arbitration

Combined AP & UPI
CHICAGO — It seemed likely today that any dispute over Dick Williams between Oakland A's owner Charles Finley and the New York Yankees might wind up in arbitration.

Williams, who announced his intention to quit as manager of the A's during the world series, is reported being sought by the Yankee organization as its manager.

Finley seemed to have second thoughts, though, and said he told Yankees owners George Steinbrenner and Gabe Paul they wouldn't be able to touch Williams unless he is "handsomely" compensated in cash or playing personnel.

Williams has two years to go on a three-year contract with Oakland and Finley said he would go to court if necessary. Steinbrenner, commenting on Finley's statements, said he had not talked with Williams and had no plans to do so unless Williams is released from his Oakland contract.

Settling any dispute between two clubs over the manager would be a league matter, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said. "I cannot conceive of the American League office not resolving this matter," he said.

American League president Joe Cronin could be called upon as chief arbitrator. In a spirit of conciliation, he could rule that the Yankees should give the A's a player or a cash sum.

I-J Sports Editor

Finley Is Back In The Headlines

The World Series is over and for awhile I thought other sports doings would push Charles O. Finley off the headlines. How wrong I was.

No sooner does Finley get to Chicago for the American League meeting does he announce he has "no intentions" of releasing manager Dick Williams from his contract which still has two years to run. Since he had said earlier he would not stand in the way of Williams going elsewhere, his latest announcement came as a surprise, thus Finley got back in the headlines.

When the story first leaked from the players that Williams had told them he was going to quit the A's following the series, win or lose, speculation on how Finley was going to handle the problem started. From my observations on how Finley operates, I thought he would make it difficult for Williams to quit, since it was common knowledge that he was headed for the New York Yankee managerial job.

But I was wrong. Or I thought I was during the happy celebration in the Oakland Coliseum Sunday after the A's had won their second straight world title. Immediately afterwards, Williams officially announced he was quitting the A's and was doing it because he wanted to be nearer his family in Florida. He said he and Finley were the best of friends. Finley in turn said he wouldn't stand in the way of Williams and there were smiles all around.

Three days later, when everybody is expecting the next story to be that Williams has been signed to manage the Yankees, Finley finds a way to get the headlines back. Whatever Finley can be accused of, it's not his lack of business sense. His methods might be suspect, but not the results.

Finley says IF he were to let Williams go, the team which gets him would "certainly have to compensate me and compensate me handsomely." He also used some figures — a quarter million dollars — in talking about the price Washington Senators received twice, when they allowed Joe Cronin to manage the Boston Red Sox and later when they gave up Gil Hodges to manage the New York Mets.

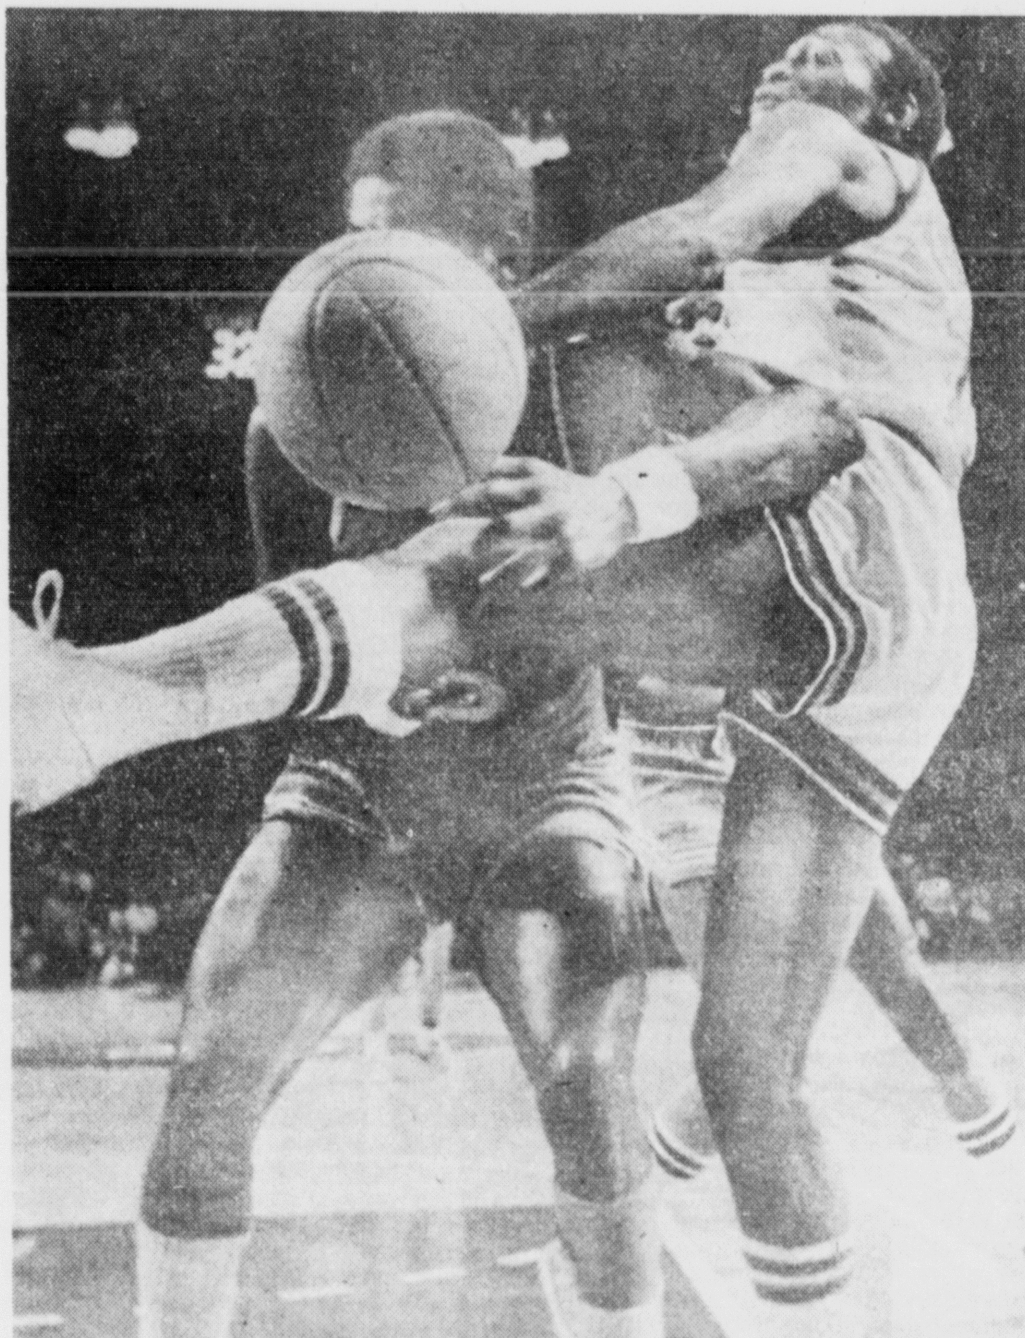

Since Finley doesn't like to be upstaged by anyone, anytime, I would think the Yankees would have to start the bidding at $300,000 for Williams' services. In a very business-like way, Charlie said $250,000 would not be enough.

If the Yankees do not want to come up with the money and Finley sticks to his declaration by keeping Williams tied to his contract, it brings up speculation on how Williams would manage the A's in that kind of situation. Why would Finley want a manager who didn't want to manage?

I don't think it would change things. Williams is a professional, and whether he liked staying with Finley or not, he would still do his best to win. And with the personnel on hand, the A's would probably win their division again. But with Finley, you aren't sure which players will still be on the team from day to day, let alone from year to year.

The players, the manager, coaches and office staff might all be unhappy with Finley, but it won't make them lose. They'll complain all the way to the bank cashing those World Series checks.

P.S. — It seems my automobile wasn't stolen from the Oakland Coliseum last Sunday, it was just borrowed. It was recovered in the player parking area of the coliseum, the same area from which it was "borrowed." Now if only my briefcase would turn up . . .

GOLFER WADKINS

Sahara Champ Is An 8-1 Favorite

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Defending champion Lanny Wadkins is an 8-1 favorite today to repeat in the $135,000 72-hole Sahara Invitational and he's got a cute little bundle of new incentive.

Wadkins skipped last week's Kaiser Invitational to fly home to Winston-Salem, N.C., and be with his wife, Rachel, who gave birth prematurely to a 4-pound, 4-ounce daughter, Jessica Dawn. "They're both fine," he grinned.

Wadkins is the top money-winner of the year here with $194,948 and would go well over the $200,000 mark with the $27,000 first prize. Last year he went over the $100,000 mark by winning the Sahara and went on to set a record for a rookie of $116,616.

The 23-year-old Wadkins went to Wake Forest College on a scholarship set up by Arnold Palmer whom he beat here by one stroke last year. Palmer, 44, has never won the Sahara but has finished second twice.

Palmer is No. 22 on the money list this year with $84,644 and would go over $100,000 for the ninth straight year if he picks up the winner's purse.

Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, the No. 1 oddsmaker in this gambling mecca, rated Wadkins at 8-1 and Palmer at 15-1.

At 12-1 he placed Hubert Green, a young two-time winner this year on the PGA tour, Hale Irwin, Grier Jones and Forest Fezler.

With Palmer at 15-1, he put Dave Stockton, John Schlee, Bob Murphy, Bobby Nichols, and Gay Brewer. Back at 20-1, he listed Jerry Heard, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Rod Funseth, Homero Blancas and Bert Grens.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of six tournaments this year, is passing up the Sahara. He is the leading money-winner with $278,124.

Green and Wadkins are the only multiple winners here. Green won the Tallahassee Open and the B.C. Open and Wadkins took the Byron Nelson Classic and the USI Classic.

The Sahara-Nevada County Club is the site of the 16th annual Sahara and it's a tight 6,800 yard, par 36-35-71 course.

Seals Made Opportunities Count In Win

OAKLAND (AP) — "We simply had an abundance of opportunities and capitalized on them," said left wing Gary Croteau last night after the California Golden Seals defeated the Detroit Red Wings 7-3 in National Hockey League play.

Croteau pulled off his first hat trick in two years last night by scoring once in the second period and twice within 17 seconds during the third. It was his 200th game with the Seals and 224th in the NHL.

The victory broke a three-game losing streak and placed the Seals in a tie for third place in the West with Pittsburgh, Chicago and Los Angeles, 3-3.

The Seals, who took 42 shots on the goal compared to Detroit's 19, avenged an 11-2 loss to the Red Wings last Sunday.

"Nobody felt good after that 11-2 stinker and our pride was shot to hell," said Croteau. "We kept talking about it in practice and I'm sure we were all determined to do something about it."

Center forward Walt McKechnie agreed, adding, "Nothing worked for us in Detroit and nothing went right for them Wednesday night."

The Seals led 1-0 after one period on a goal by Stan Weir. Croteau had made it 2-0 in the second when teammate Joey Johnston set a Seals record by scoring in six consecutive games for a 3-0 lead.

Scoring in the third period with Croteau were Hil Graves and Ivan Boldirev. Detroit scoring in the second and third period was by Red Berenson, Ace Bailey and Bill Collins.

FINLEY'S VERSION

A's Won't Give Skipper To Yankees For Nothing

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Charlie Finley says he'd like to tell his side of the story.

Never at any time, he points out, has he ever told the New York Yankees they could have his manager, Dick Williams, for nothing.

If they want him that badly, he says, they can have him—but it's going to cost them a front-line player or a substantial piece of cash. The Yankees aren't going to get Dick Williams any other way, insists the Oakland A's owner. He means it. So much, claims Charlie Finley, that if anybody tries pushing him, he'll go to court.

"Let's go back to the beginning of this thing," says Finley. "Dick Williams told our players in New York he was leaving the team at the end of the World Series. He told them before I heard about it."

"Next thing I know I read in the paper where George Steinbrenner (the Yankees' principal owner) said, 'Gee, who wouldn't want to have Dick Williams?' I didn't say anything when I read that. I didn't rush to the telephone, call the Commissioner and say this man is tampering. 'I just waited for the Yankees to ask my permission. They asked me at the American League meeting in Chicago Tuesday, and I said no."

Sports

Why?
"For a number of reasons," says Finley. "My organization has been raided enough over the years. That's right, raided. . . a-i-d-e-d. Gabe Paul is a good baseball man and he's with the Yankees now, but when he was with Cleveland and Hank Peters was working for me, he asked permission to talk with him. I said okay, and he made Peters his assistant."

"Two years ago he took Phil Seghi from me. Now Gabe Paul goes over to the Yankees and he wants my manager. I have nothing against Gabe Paul, but I think it's about time he develops his own organization."

"All the clubs come to me. My ticket manager was stolen, my farm director was taken and now they want my manager. I've never stolen an employee from another organization."

Finley says there are other reasons he wants to be compensated if he's going to lose Williams.

"It was only two months ago that Reggie Jackson condemned all my coaches and had one helluva argument with Dick Williams on an airplane," says the A's owner.

"Okay, what did I do? I turned around and extended Williams' contract and re-hired all the coaches. My new manager coming in will want his own coaches. Do you think for one minute I'm going to let a man walk out and stick me with four coaches?"

"Let's get back to George Steinbrenner for a moment. I think a great deal of him. Baseball is fortunate to have a

OVER PRO FOOTBALL INJURY

Gray Gains Settlement

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Former St. Louis Cardinal guard Ken Gray has received an undisclosed cash settlement in his suit charging the National Football League team with negligence in treating a knee injury he suffered in 1969.

The suit had asked for $1,750,000 in punitive and actual damages but Martin Green, Gray's attorney, said the out-of-court agreement stipulated that the actual cash settlement not be revealed.

Green said the figure was "substantially more" than the $28,450 judgment Gray was awarded by the St. Louis Circuit Court last June. Green said the settlement did not concern Gray's allegations that the Cardinals gave him "potent, harmful, illegal and dangerous" drugs.

He said the suit was settled on the basis of negligence in treating the knee injury and an agreement that the Cardinals would drop an appeal of the Circuit Court judgment.

"He was injured in September of 1969 and we feel the Cardinals were remiss in permitting him to continue playing football for the succeeding two-month period until the required surgery in December, Green said.

"We feel they should have yanked him out and not permitted him to play any more football that season. But instead they advised him that it was okay to keep playing, to exercise his knee, to put heat on it—conservative therapy. And that's negligence."

The attorney said the surgery corrected the problem and Gray played part of the 1970 season with the Houston Oilers after the Cardinals released him after the 1970 training camp because he couldn't pass a physical examination.

Gray, who was an All-Pro during his 1960-69 career with St. Louis, is now a football coach at Llano, Tex., High School.

Padres Are Feeney's Worry

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres' ownership problems are giving National League President Charles (Chub) Feeney a king sized headache—and maybe even an ulcer.

So much so these days that the usually personable and friendly Feeney is making himself unavailable. And when he is around, he answers all queries about the Padres with "we'll just have to wait and see."

One West Coast newspaper quoted him the other day as saying "the whole situation is giving me an ulcer."

No faulting Feeney. Less than three weeks ago he and the N.L. club owners thought they had the situation finally resolved with the disclosure "an angel" has come forth to buy up the troubled franchise and keep it in San Diego.

This came as good news to all concerned since UPI learned there was little sentiment for selling the franchise to a Washington, D.C. group.

When the owners last met—in Chicago 19 days ago—four of the 12 said flat out they were opposed to a Washington move

Volleyball Clinic Slated Nov. 10

A volleyball clinic and play day for the Cossack Associates children will be held Saturday, Nov. 10 at Sonoma State College.

The clinic, which is for both boys and girls, will begin at 10 a.m. and last until noon. All children of Cossack Associates members are invited and those children who wish to become members may join at the clinic.

The coaches for the clinic will be Vivian Fritz, head Sonoma volleyball coach, and Dr. Martha Yates.

and gave San Diego officials another 30 days to look for a monied person who would buy up owner C. Arnold Smith and keep the team in the southern California city.

Smith is in hot water with the Internal Revenue Service and last week also saw his U. S. National Bank of San Diego go under. He accepted a $12 million offer early in the 1973 season to sell the Padres to the Washington, D.C. group.

Last week the Padres' new "Angel" was revealed to be well-known California horsewoman Marjorie L. Everett. Mrs. Everett is the biggest single stockholder in Hollywood Park.

And only this past Tuesday, Smith's daughter, Mrs. Carol Smith Shannon, said she is willing to buy up all but a small percentage of her father's share in the Padres and join Mrs. Everett as co-owner.

Mrs. Shannon and her father own 34 per cent each of the current Padres stock and the other 32 per cent is owned by club President E.J. Buzze Bava.

Under a proposed new alignment, Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Shannon would own or control 95 per cent of the club and Bava five per cent.

According to UPI's source, there is no general objection to Mrs. Shannon but the same is not true of Mrs. Everett.

The objection to Mrs. Everett, UPI was told, centers around the part she played in the 1972 bribery trial of then Illinois Governor Otto Kerner.

She was the federal government's main witness before a federal grand jury in Chicago. The case resulted in the conviction of Kerner and others on a variety of federal charges, including bribery. At the time Mrs. Everett headed the three clubs that operated Chicago's three main racing tracks.

Redwood Girls A Tennis Power

By LEW CODDINGTON

If a criminal were fleeing from justice, he could find no better place to hide than a Marin County Athletic League tennis court in October. Nobody ever finds out what happens there.

Redwood High School is certainly aware of this fact. Its all-conquering girls team has played overwhelming tennis in even more overwhelming obscurity for three years now.

If the Giants defeated Marin Catholic today, they will have concluded their third consecutive unbeaten season, and won their third consecutive MCAL title. The victory would be their 27th in a row. Four years ago, they lost once — tsk, tsk.

If anybody is wondering why, all they need to do is look at the Northern California Tennis Association rankings, which came out Tuesday. Diane DeMartini, who plays No. 1, is rated 16th in girls 16 singles. Beth Fernbacher, No. 2, is 12th in girls 14s. Dorsey Hook, No. 3, is 19th in girls 16s.

The most horrifying part, from their opponents' standpoint, is that Diane and Dorsey are juniors and Beth is a freshman, which means no respite next year.

Redwood has a strong tradition of tennis excellence, reflected in the boys team which will be working on its 80th straight MCAL victory next spring. Girls coach Pam Deschler "drills the players pretty hard in the areas where they need work," but has an abundance of material to start with, since many Redwood players belong to Marin's various tennis clubs.

NICE TRY — Terra Linda football coach Don Lucas attempted to send in offensive plays written on pieces of paper Friday night against San Rafael, but officials called it an "artificial aid" and put a stop to it in the first quarter.

It was just as well, admits Lucas, because it was proving difficult to scribble all the necessary information on paper in time to get it in to the quarterback.

REPLY — The calibre of officiating at MCAL water polo games is of concern to Mrs. Peter Ruona of Novato, who wrote coordinator of officials Bob Fitzhenry about it. Fitzhenry explains:

"In a number of sports, it is difficult to get qualified officials. In basketball and football, it is no problem — we have waiting lists in those sports. Baseball is getting better.

"But with water polo, soccer, wrestling and girls volleyball, it is very difficult to find people who know the game. The majority of officials are graduate students at the University of California at Berkeley, or at San Francisco State.

"It's always a touch-and-go situation. We generally have these people for only one year, and we can't build up an association as we would like to."

BIG GAME — The MCAL title probably will be decided tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. when Novato's junior varsity football team (2-0) plays host to league-leading Redwood (3-0). The game, originally scheduled for Redwood's field, was first rescheduled for Tamalpais, but conflicted with a freshman clash.

REVERSE — The situation at Redwood's field has produced an oddity this week. On Saturday, Redwood's varsity will play Novato at Tam, and Tam will play San Marin at Novato. The various contingents doubtless will wave and give school yells as they stream past each other on U.S. 101.

Redwood Harriers Triumph

Redwood High School's varsity cross country team defeated Terra Linda and Tamalpais yesterday in a double dual meet in San Rafael to remain on the heels of idle San Rafael High in the Marin County Athletic League title chase.

Kevin Glasner led Redwood to victory with a 16:14 record time over the 3-mile Ridgewood course. Redwood has won nine of 10 meets and San Rafael, which drew a bye yesterday, is 8-0.

Kate Keyes of Tamalpais lost for the first time in two years when Wendy Severinghaus of Redwood defeated her in girls competition. The Redwood and Tamalpais girls are tied for the league lead at 9-1.

In another double dual meet yesterday, Drake's varsity team defeated Novato for the first time in recent years, Larry Mastin leading the Drake charge with a 14:34 clocking on a 2.7-mile course.

ABA Nets Are Ailing, Sans Dr. J

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL
Take away Dr. J's medicine bag and the New York Nets are an ailing ball club.

Julius Erving, who uses large doses of baskets and rebounds to throttle the opposition, was held to 20 points Wednesday night as Kentucky edged New York 100-98 in their battle for the Eastern Division lead.

With 13 seconds remaining and the Nets trailing by two points, Erving had two chances at a tying basket but missed each shot.

Wendell Ladner almost put the collar on Erving in the second half as he held him to only six points. Ladner had his own offensive spark with 18 points, 11 rebounds and three steals.

Dan Issel led the Colonels with 22 points and Artis Gilmore contributed 23 rebounds. Rookie Larry Kenon scored 24 points for New York.

Indiana lost high-scoring George McGinnis with sprained ligaments midway in the second quarter but still prevailed with a 98-89 victory over Denver. McGinnis, the No. 2 scorer in the ABA last season, scored 16 points before his departure. He will probably miss only one game.

Mel Daniels and Fred Lewis paced Indiana with 17 points each. Ralph Simpson of Denver scored a game-high 22 points.

Colts' Domres Faces Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders have learned that Marty Domres will be starting at quarterback for Baltimore Sunday when the Raiders call on the Colts.

Domres lost his job to rookie Bert Jones in the exhibition season but hit 9-of-13 passes for 177 yards as the Colts upset Detroit 29-27 last Sunday.

When Raider center Jim Otto and kicker George Blanda perform against the Colts, they will set a consecutive game record of 189. They equalled Forrest Gregg's league mark Monday night in the 23-23 tie against Denver.

Water Polo Win

San Marin defeated Drake, 12-5, yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League water polo match in the Novato High School pool. San Marin's record is now 2-6 and Drake is 0-8.

Troubled WHA Blades Improving

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL
The New York Golden Blades may be having trouble in the front office but Andre Lacroix thinks the team may be over its problems on the ice.

Lacroix, the league's leading point scorer last year with 124 for the Philadelphia Blazers before his trade to New York, said after the Blades' 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Fighting Saints last night.

"This is a good hockey team, but this is the first game all year we're all playing together. I hope we don't go back to the way we've been playing."

In other World Hockey Association action, Houston defeated Los Angeles 6-2 and Toronto topped Vancouver 7-4.

The Blades' front-office situation is up in the air at present. The team's current owners were unable to meet the Oct. 15 payroll and so the league had to pay the players, which it did one week ago. However, the owners are still hoping to retain control of the team; at present they are looking for new investors to provide additional capital before the next payroll deadline of Oct. 30.

Lacroix thinks the success of the owners locating new partners—and the survival of the team itself—may depend on the play of the Blades.

"If we play good hockey, somebody will buy the team," Lacroix said. "If we play like we did tonight, we'll get the crowds and the league will keep the team in New York. If we play badly, then no one will want to buy it."

In eight games before Wednesday, the Blades had won only one game but showed the promise of better things last night. And Lacroix had no small part, scoring a goal and adding two assists to increase his point total to 11, one behind Quebec's Serge Bernier for the league lead.

Lacroix's goal, followed 18 seconds later in the first period by a tally by Norm Ferguson, stunned Minnesota with a quick 2-0 lead, and Bobby Sheehan's two second-period goals gave New York an insurmountable 4-0 margin.

Combined AP & UPI
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The U.S. Auto Club yesterday added another 500-mile championship race to its 1974 program — a 33-car, $250,000 event at the Texas World Speedway, College Station, Tex.

USAC's "Triple Crown" thus becomes a "Quadruple Crown" with four big-car 500-mile events.

The Texas race, not yet formally named pending selection of a sponsor, will be run Sunday, Sept. 1, prior to Labor Day. That date was vacated by the California "500" at Ontario, which has been rescheduled to March 10. The Indianapolis "500" will be May 27 and the Schaefer "500" at Pocono in Pennsylvania will be July 7.

Golf

BRISBANE, Australia — American Jerry Breaux today shot a five under par 67 to take the lead in the first round of the $38,000 Qantas Australian Open Golf tournament. One stroke back was expatriate Englishman Guy Wolstenholme, followed by American Lee Elder with 69.

NAGOYA, Japan — Unknown Japanese pro Koichi Inouye today fired a brilliant six-under-par 66 and grabbed a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $125,000 Tokai Classic International Open Golf Tournament. Lee Trevino, a specially invited guest competitor, could not sink his birdie putts and shot a one-over-par 38-35-73 for 28th.

Baseball

KANSAS CITY — The Kansas City Royals yesterday exchanged pitcher Dick Drago for pitcher Marty Pattin of the Boston Red Sox in an American League trade.

SAN DIEGO — Veteran outfielder Matty Alou, a former Oakland A's player and a National League batting champion with a .309 lifetime average, yesterday was sold to the San Diego Padres in a reversal of the club's low-budget policy.

Tennis

ABERAVON, Wales — Mari-ta Redondo of National City, Calif., yesterday eliminated Elie Appel of The Netherlands 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 and gained the women's singles final in a $75,000 international tennis tournament.

Track-Field

LOS ANGELES — Steve

Smith, the only pole vaulter to top 18 feet indoors, signed a professional contract with the International Track Association, the group's president Michael F. O'Hara announced yesterday.

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Coliseum, home of the 1932 Olympics, may undergo a $2.3 million face-lift that would eliminate its famed track to provide more seats for Los Angeles Ram, USC and UCLA football games. The Coliseum commission voted yesterday to seek the $2.3 million loan from the city and county government to make seating improvements requested by Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom.

WASHINGTON — Carl Kammerer, former Washington Redskins defensive lineman, was named today to be assistant director of action, the Volunteer Federal agency that includes the Peace Corps. He will be in charge of Congressional relations. Kammerer, 36, played two years with San Francisco and seven more with the Redskins before retiring three years ago.

NBA ROUNDUP

Abdul-Jabbar Gets His Scoring Touch

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is back in the scoring groove and that probably means another division title for the Milwaukee Bucks.

Abdul-Jabbar, averaging 24.2 points for his first six games and deep in an unaccustomed ninth place among scoring leaders, tore loose with 31 points last night as Milwaukee bombed Buffalo 130-111.

The victory was the sixth in seven starts for the Bucks and pushed them a game in front of Chicago in the Midwest.

Milwaukee toyed with an improved Buffalo club for the first quarter as they both employed a fast break game in rushing to a 32-all tie. Then experience won out as the Bucks scored 34 points in the second period while holding the Braves to 19 for a 66-51 intermission lead.

Los Angeles climbed into a first place tie with Portland in the Pacific Division as the Lakers edged the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 92-91 on a pair of Jerry West foul shots with four seconds left. Portland dropped a 132-110 decision to Philadelphia 76ers.

In other National Basketball Association action, Rudy Tomjanovich scored 34 points and Mike Newlin tallied 32 as the Houston Rockets swept past the Boston Celtics 132-117. Pete Maravich netted 15 of his 36 points in the third quarter in leading the Atlanta Hawks to a 131-106 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics and Detroit beat Phoenix 115-99.

Soccer Shutout

Steve School, Nat Sios and Carl Bettinger each scored a goal yesterday to lead the Redwood High School soccer team to a 3-0 victory over Marin Catholic at Redwood in a Marin County Athletic League match.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Delaying The Hit

By LEE TREVINO

High handicappers make the mistake of accelerating the club too early in the downswing. The club can't hit the ball until it gets to it (too deep for ya?), so delay the impact as long as possible.

The late hit produces two separate results. One gives a bonus in distance. In another, it helps maneuver the ball. There are two kinds of delayed hits.

For instance, the late hit can slide the ball around trees blocking a shot on the right. Keep your arms, hands and hips well ahead of the club and come into the ball with a sweeping motion. This keeps the ball low, producing a trajectory that will go under overhanging limbs, while applying a left-to-right spin that results in a fade.

In another delayed hit, late hand action whips the clubhead into the ball at the last instant. This is where added distance comes from — applying power at the very bottom of the downswing. Ain't that where the ball is?

Maximum clubhead speed isn't the result of accelerating the club starting down. You'll waste speed in midair. Try to feel a sensation of pulling the club down into the ball at the last second. You'll have to walk farther, but you'll enjoy it more.

75th Birthday Present: National Tennis Title

Stephen L. Graves of Novato is celebrating his 75th birthday today, and thanks to a successful trip to Charlottesville, Va., last weekend, it will be a happy celebration.

Graves Sunday won the United States Lawn Tennis Association men's 75 singles championship by defeating Walter Weebrook of Pasadena, 6-4, 6-4.

It was the first national title for Graves, though he had made the finals and semi-finals of several age-group tournaments on the West Coast. A retired former YMCA secretary in Cleveland, Graves has lived in Novato 10 years.

Finals opponent Weebrook is a former age-group national champion, as is Carl Busch of Downey, Graves' victim in the semi-finals, 6-4, 6-1. There were 22 entries from 14 states and Canada in the five-day tournament held at the Boar's Head Sports Club.

Graves and Robert Benjamin of San Leandro were runnersup in men's 75 doubles, losing in the finals 6-2, 6-3 to Brian Hamlin of Bridgehampton, N.Y., and Eldon Roark of Tennessee.

NFL Rushing Leader Shows He Is Human

NEW YORK (AP) — O.J. Simpson is human and vulnerable after all — but it's still going to be a long time before anybody catches up with him.

The Buffalo Bills' brilliant running back, who had spent the first five weeks of the National Football League season tearing up the opposition with 100-plus yard games, ran into a roadblock last Sunday in Miami.

He gained only 55 yards before retiring with a sprained ankle, an injury which the Bills say is healing quickly and won't keep him out of Monday night's game against Kansas City, on channel 7 at 6 p.m.

Despite his slim yardage Simpson still owns a commanding lead in NFL rushing, according to statistics released today by the league.

Simpson, who may have lost his chance to surpass Jim Brown's single-season record of 1,863 yards, has now amassed 868 yards. His closest pursuer is Calvin Hill of Dallas, the National Football Conference leader who bulled his way for 129 yards against the New York Giants last Sunday to boost his total to 562 yards.

Charley Taylor of Washington is the NFC's No. 1 receiver with 35 catches for 491 yards and six touchdowns. Ed Podolak of Kansas City leads the American Football Conference with 29 for 237 but he hasn't scored a touchdown. John Hadl of Los Angeles and Ken Stabler of Oakland are the respective AFC and AFB passing leaders.

Other NFL leaders include Oakland's Ray Guy, the top punter with a 46.1-yard average and place-kickers David Ray of Los Angeles and Roy Gerela of Pittsburgh, the scoring leaders with 56 points apiece.

Petaluma, Rancho In Key Games

With two long winning streaks, two league titles and the number-one ranking in the Redwood Empire on the line, tomorrow night's football games involving Rancho Cotate and Petaluma high schools have reached epic proportions.

The two-time Sonoma County

League champion Cougars from Rohnert Park will bring a 15-game SCL victory string into their 8 p.m. encounter with Cardinal Newman High School at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The Cougars, who are seeking their third consecutive league title, are in first place with a 3-0 mark, just one-half game ahead of the Cardinals at 2-0.

Last year Rancho Cotate beat Cardinal Newman, 26-6, but the Cardinals should produce more offense this year.

Meanwhile in Vallejo, Petaluma High School's defending North Bay League champion Trojans will be putting their 10-game NBL win streak on the line against the Apaches from Vallejo High School at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Petaluma and Vallejo currently hold the top spot in league with 3-0 marks.

Vallejo, which will try to avenge last year's 7-6 defeat to the Trojans, have scored 88 points in three NBL games while owing 31.

The Trojans have not been as prolific offensively as Vallejo, with 73 points in league play, but have been stingier defensively by limiting their opponents to just 25 points.

49ers' Reed At Flanker In Practice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — All pro wide receiver Gene Washington hopes to be ready for San Francisco's battle Sunday with Atlanta, but 49er coach Dick Nolan is taking no chances.

Yesterday, Nolan had third-string quarterback Joe Reed working at the flanker spot.

"He knows the patterns and he's a good athlete," said Nolan of the 195-pound Reed, who is in his second year. "He is very fast."

Washington was hoping that the drills would be unnecessary and that he would be ready for flanker duties.

"I got some circulation in my ankle and the swelling has gone down," said Washington of the injury suffered in the 49ers' 40-0 romp over New Orleans Sunday.

Washington missed yesterday's drills as did Danney Abramowicz, another wide receiver. Abramowicz said he also hoped to be ready for Atlanta despite a sprained knee and ankle.

Rookie running back Dave Atkins, 194-pounder from the University of Texas at El Paso, got a heavy workout in Wednesday's practice.

"He's got hustle, aggressiveness and all-around athletic ability," Nolan said of him.

NORCAL GOLF GROUP

Kentfield's Luce Named President

A former Olympic Club president from Kentfield is the new president of the Northern California Golf Association.

Raymond F. Luce, the 1969 head of the San Francisco-based private golf club and a member of the Meadow Club near Fairfax for 22 years, has begun his one-year term. He succeeds Dr. C.H. Blackstone of Pebble Beach, and thus joins 1965 NCGA president Ed Vest as the first two top executives to be chosen from Marin County.

Luce, 64, said "I wasn't surprised that I was elected. I was nominated by the nominating committee, and I had no opposition."

Although the 23-handicapper is happy with the election, he realizes there is a lot of work ahead for the 69-year-old organization with its 256 clubs and 56,000 members.

"We'll but putting on 23 tournaments, the same as last year," he said. "We'll handle qualifying for the U.S. Open (sectional and regional play), U.S. Amateur, qualifying for U.S. Public Links, and our own tournaments at Spyglass (golf course in Monterey)."

A general partner in Luce and Company, a San Francisco-headquartered meat wholesale house, Luce will also oversee course ratings and board meetings.

Luce, a member of the NCGA board for nine years, served as first vice president this year and second vice president in 1972 before being elected to his present spot.

The president of the Pacific Meat Jobbers Association was born in San Francisco in 1909. Luce, a San Francisco Rotary Club member, graduated from Stanford University in 1931 with a business administration degree.

He took up golf in 1944, although he was already an Olympic Club member since 1931. During the time he had joined the Olympic Club, Luce served as vice president, tournament chairman, and member of the scoring committee for the 1955 and 1966 U.S. Open Golf Championships held at Olympic.

Luce, who was a founding member of the Spyglass Hill Golf Club, lists his top fairway achievement as "my hole-in-one" in 1961. It was my one and only. I thought it was a lost ball."

It wasn't. The ball was found in the cup of the 15th hole at Olympic's Lakeside course.

Luce and his wife, Katrine, reared three non-golfing sons. They are: Raymond Jr., 37; Graham, 34; and Allen, 24.

Seattle's Niemi Buys Sailboat St. Francis V

SEATTLE (UPI)—William F. Niemi Jr., president of a Seattle sporting goods firm, has purchased the six-meter world cup champion sailboat St. Francis V from a San Francisco group.

He said yesterday he had changed its name to Joli II and would berth the craft in Seattle.

Reports said St. Francis V, purchased from the Sequoia Syndicate of the St. Francis Yacht Club, cost more than $60,000 to build.

The boat won the World Cup for six meters here last month.

A's Jackson Won't Let Award Interfere

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reggie Jackson, the World Series Most Valuable Player, showed up one hour late to pick up his prize—a 1974 powder-blue Dodge Charger today and then proclaimed he wouldn't let the award interfere with his playing next year with the Oakland A's.

"I'm not going out there and say 'I'm an MVP,'" said Jackson. "I'm just going to do my job, hit 300, hit a couple more home runs, and drive in a few more runs too."

Korbut Club

SANTA MONICA (UPI)—An Olga Korbut fan club was launched by American admirers of the petite Russian Olympic gymnastics champion as a result of a drive initiated by gym teacher Barbara Thatcher of Beverly Hills. The address is O.K. Fan Club, Box 110, Santa Monica, Calif.

"I want the money because I want the titles that go underneath it—leader, professional, man, and winner. Henry Aaron is the best ballplayer around today. He's got all of these things, and I want them too."

Jackson, whose two run homer in the seventh game Sunday sparked the A's to their series victory over the New York Mets and their second world championship in as many years, said that he wanted very much to have manager Dick Williams stay with the team next season, but didn't blame him for wanting to leave.

"If he would stay, it would be beneficial to the ball club," said Jackson, "but I know I'm being selfish about this."

"What Mr. Finley is doing in regard to asking something in return for Williams, is what every red-blooded American would do. He's a very shrewd business man."

NHL ROUNDUP

Sharp Sabres Grab 1st

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL
Last year the Buffalo Sabres finished a distant fourth in the National Hockey League's East Division, just barely edging out Detroit for the last playoff spot. But this year the Sabres are showing they are a serious contender for division honors.

Buffalo topped Chicago, last year's West Division leader, 3-1 last night to take the lead in the NHL East by a point over the Toronto and capture their fifth victory in seven games.

In other NHL action, Montreal edged Pittsburgh 3-2, Los Angeles defeated Atlanta 6-4 and California trounced Detroit 7-3.

Gil Perreault contributed his second game-winning goal of the season.

Larry Carriere had tied the score 1-1 early in the second period after Darcy Rota's first period goal had given Chicago a 1-0 lead. Buffalo's Rene Robert added a goal for insurance late in the third period.

Yvan Cournoyer scored two goals and assisted on a third to lead the Canadiens past Pittsburgh. Cournoyer has now scored nine goals in six games. The Penguins got scores from Jean Pronovost and Syl Apps, with Apps' goal his first of the season.

Vic Venasky scored two of the Kings' four second-period goals in Los Angeles' victory over Atlanta. Linemates Frank St. Marseille and Randy Rota added three assists and a goal and an assist, respectively, while Don Kozak and Juha Widing, last year's leading scorer for the Kings, added a goal and two assists. Widing's score was his first of the season.

Atlanta wing Jacques Richard picked up two goals in the losing cause, which would have moved the Flames into first place in the West.

Tennis Courts Atop Garage In New Plan For Downtown Tiburon

By REBECCA LARSEN

A major development plan for downtown Tiburon, including a central village green, a highly developed harbor area and a parking garage topped with tennis courts, was presented to the city's planning commission last night.

The long-awaited plan, from Sequoia Pacific of Santa Ana, is the latest of several proposals in recent years for development of 36 downtown acres owned by Southern Pacific Railroad.

The plan is almost identical to a city downtown plan adopted three years ago, except for an increase in proposed open space from 10.8 to 12.9 acres, an increase in residential units from 140 to 176, and a reduction in office space from 89,000 to 41,000 square feet.

Representatives of Sequoia Pacific, a partner of the railroad, have been working with a city council committee for several months to prepare the plan.

Philip K. Buskirk of Tiburon, architect for the developer and the man who originally prepared the city's adopted downtown plan, outlined the new proposal to about 100 persons.

Recently, some citizens groups have announced opposition to development which would correspond to the city's adopted plan, but last night planning commission chairman Charles E. Bassett asked the audience to save any comments until a public hearing Nov. 7. Following presentation, commissioners had few questions for the architect.

Buskirk said the proposal will include six major developed areas.

The harbor area will feature a shopping center which he pictured as "a tiny Ghirardelli Square" with sunken parking spaces below and a one-story level of shops above. It will also include a maritime museum, two small waterfront parks, extensive boat docks and a ferry landing.

An inn-conference center near the harbor will include a 120-room inn, retail shops and office space.

In a proposed parking district area near the center of the downtown, a 500-car garage will be topped by tennis courts and screened by buildings. This area also will include retail shops and office space and provide a possible site for a new city hall and a community meeting hall.

There would also be a combined office and residential area near the central downtown, a small area of housing on a hillside above downtown and a residential section near the downtown marsh.

Buskirk emphasized the increases in open space in the plan as compared to the city adopted plan and pointed out the two-and-one-half acre village green which would lie in the heart of the downtown. He also said that the developer planned to leave the marsh intact.

He agreed that some residents might prefer more open space along the water but said "the waterfront is an exciting place where we should encourage diverse activities."

The plan calls for one major new street, Harbor Drive, connecting Tiburon Boulevard with Paradise Drive and running parallel to Tiburon Boulevard.

He promised that there would be space along the road for pedestrian and bike paths.

It was unclear what part the city might play in the building proposals. The city council has indicated it might provide downtown drainage, parking and road improvements under a redevelopment plan now being drawn. The council is to meet again on that redevelopment proposal tonight at 6 o'clock at city hall.

Flower Growers See Fuel Threat

SAN MATEO (UPI) — Possible fuel shortages this winter could destroy the $105 million floral industry in California, according to the Council of California Growers.

Robert Hall, president of Encinitas Floral Company, told the council yesterday he had been told by his suppliers that fuel could be unavailable for as long as 90 days.

Growers were seeking federal and state help in their efforts to get more fuel. The council noted that priority for supplies is given to farmers who produce food and fiber, although flower production involves the highest cost per acre of any of California's 200 agricultural crops.

ZONKEY DUE AT THE ZOO

NEW YORK (UPI) — A spokesman for the Prospect Park Zoo says Jenny, a donkey, is pregnant by Lucky Strike, a zebra.

The offspring, expected in March, will be called a zonkey.

Lucky Strike was lonely after the death of his mate last year, the spokesman said, so he was moved in with Jenny "for company" — the next thing we knew, they had mated and Jenny was pregnant. It is all very unusual as far as we know."

Question Of Legal Tender

FRESNO (AP) — A Fresno man who feels all income taxes are illegal contends the government can't prosecute him for failing to file returns because the money he made wasn't legal tender.

A U.S. District Court judge refused to dismiss charges this week that James W. Scott failed to file returns in 1969 and 1970 on income exceeding $23,000.

Scott, head of a self-styled Tax Rebellion Committee, argued he didn't earn anything on which taxes could be owed because federal reserve notes aren't backed by silver or gold and thus aren't legal tender.

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night heard plans for a 54-unit townhouse development, to be called Tiburon Towne, proposed for an area off Trestle Glen Boulevard in the Porto Marino Drive area.

Developer Herman D. Ruth said he would donate 17 of the 28-acre site to the city as open space as part of his proposal.

Several commissioners said they were concerned that the project, a planned unit development, had too high a density and would create excessive traffic on Trestle Glen.

An environmental impact report, submitted with the proposal, said the complex would create 400 to 500 new auto trips per day on the road.

Commissioners also told Ruth that officials of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District said they did not have enough sewer connections to handle the project. Ruth said he thought he could get the connections anyway.

The commission continued the proposal to Nov. 28.
